THE CIRCLEVILLE HERALD

FULL SERVICE

Associated Press leased wire for state, national and world news, Associated Press picture service, leading columnists and artists, full local news coverage.

A Proud Organization

Circleville Rotary Club is observing its 50th anniversary and today's edition of The Herald is dedicated to that proud organization.

Six charter members of the Circleville chapter are still alive. Four of them are active members. One has been so conscientious in attending and making up meetings that he has a perfect 50-year attendance record.

Of the original members those still living are Max Friedman, Columbus; Wilson Cellar, Florida; Karl Herrmann, Paul Johnson, Tom Gilliland and Robert Brehmer, Sr. all of Circleville. The latter four are still active members.

Brehmer and Johnson are both active businessmen, the former working daily at his Greenhouse on North Court Street which he operates with his son, Robert Jr., and son-in-law, Joe Bell, and the latter opening his office supply store on South Court Street daily.

Herrmann is "very actively" retired and divides his time doing chores at his home, visiting hospitalized and bedfast friends and his old "haunts" around the Court House.

Gilliland now lives at Pickaway Manor and is not quite as active in club functions as he would like to be but still enjoys his ties with the organization.

Of the six charter members, all but Cellar plan to attend tonight's gala celebration.

Circleville may well be proud of its Rotary Club, and the club of its four active charter members.

Real Estate Values Perplex State Solons

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — How is the true value of a piece of real estate determined?

This is one of the befuddling questions facing a legislative subcommittee charged with finding a way to neutralize the impact on taxing districts of a new requirement that all property be taxed at 35 per cent of true value.

Sen. Michael Maloney finally threw up his hands in discouragement during a joint Ways and Means subcommittee session Wednesday and suggested the problems of assessing property uniformly be handled separately from valuation.

"Once we get over this hump, I think we're going to have to go deeply into this question of how property is valued," the Cincinnati Republican said. "But I don't think we can afford to get into that swamp along with this one."

The Board of Tax Appeals, responding to an Ohio Supreme Court ruling, decided recently that all counties must tax all kinds of property at 35 per cent of true value.

Since most counties have been taxing at a lower level, the ruling would raise property taxes unless the legislature finds a way to offset the increases.

But how is true value determined? It currently is based on the average price for which similar pieces of property are sold.

However, some types of property are rarely sold in some areas, or so few parcels are sold that it is impossible to derive a fair projection of what other parcels are worth.

The only alternative to this method is to have all property reappraised on a continuing basis, something the subcommittee agreed was physically impossible.

The problems on the assessment side of the issue are equally bewildering.

If the committee decides to roll back taxes on real property to balance the effects of the uniform assessment order, Maloney said, it should also consider the same action for tangible property and public utility taxes.

He noted that a lawsuit could result if taxation is altered for some types of property and not others.

Baby Boy's Body Found In Vacant Cincy Area Lot

CINCINNATI (AP) — Police in suburban Lincoln Heights today sought the identity of a seven to eight-pound baby boy found Wednesday in a vacant lot.

The body was found after a resident saw a dog playing around what appeared to be a doll. The baby's head had been mangled by the dog.

Authorities said the body may have been dumped into a garbage can last Friday since that was the date of the last garbage collection.

The Hamilton County coroner's office was attempting to determine the cause of death.

20 Per Cent Increase Possible

Social Security Hike Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A 20-per-cent hike in Social Security benefits is off to a strong start in the election-year Congress.

The legislation, introduced in a surprise move Wednesday by Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., would also reduce slightly this year the payroll-tax increase already planned—but would make up for it next year with a stiff hike on higher incomes.

Mills, chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee, asked the Senate Finance Committee to incorporate his bill in the Social Security-welfare legislation it is considering. The 20-per-cent hike would substitute for a 5-per-cent increase the House approved before sending the bill to the Senate.

Chairman Russell B. Long, D-La., of the Senate committee said his panel also will look at a proposal to insure that all Social Security beneficiaries are lifted above the poverty level.

There appears little doubt the Senate will increase the 5-percent raise now pending, probably at least to Mills' 20-per-cent figure.

When Mills unexpectedly introduced his proposal, Social Security hikes were being planned in the Senate and reports were circulating that the Nixon administration was preparing to recommend a substantial increase.

Mills, a contender for the Democratic presidential nomination, said he decided to sponsor an increase after accepting a finding by the Social Security Advisory Council that the system was adequately funded for larger benefits.

The measure, involving about $8 billion in benefits above present levels, would increase the average benefit from $133 to $162 a month for a retired worker, $222 to $269 for a couple, and $114 to $153 for a widow, Mills said.

The tax consequences would vary, principally for those in higher earning brackets.

However, tax rates provided in the pending legislation would be revised to soften the tax impact this year and rise more gradually thereafter.

The maximum tax paid by an employee this year, and matched by his employer, would be $530.40, compared with $550.80 under the bill now before the Senate and $468 under present law.

Next year, under Mills' bill, persons earning $12,000 or more would pay $648.

Peking Summit Talks Continue

PEKING (AP) — President Nixon visited the Great Wall of China today and called for an end to "walls of any kind between peoples." Then he met late in the afternoon with Premier Chou En-lai for their fourth session of talks.

"What is most important is that we have an open world," the President told newsmen who accompanied him to the engineering marvel built 2,200 years ago to keep out the barbarians.

"One result of this trip," Nixon continued, "we hope may be that walls erected, whether physical like this wall, or ideological or philosophical, will not divide the people of the world."

Looking out across the snow-dusted hills at the 1,500-mile-long wall winding westward, he expressed the hope that "peoples, regardless of their different backgrounds and philosophies, will have an opportunity to communicate with each other."

Later, at the nearby burial vaults of the Ming emperors, Nixon commented: "We have not known Asia well enough. Communications have been badly neglected." He said he hoped many Americans would have a chance to visit China.

The temperature was 27 degrees for the President's first sighting since his arrival in China Monday. He was accompanied by Mrs. Nixon, Secretary of State William P. Rogers, other members of his staff and the usual crowd of American newsmen and photographers.

Deputy Premier Li Hsien-nien, Foreign Minister Chi Peng-fei and their wives were hosts for the trip.

At an informal news conference after the party came down, Nixon made his appeal for an end to walls but commented that "the Great Wall is a great wall, and it had to be built by a great people."

Report Slowdown In Viet War; 13 Attacks Launched

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese and Viet Cong attacks slackened off during the night, and the U.S. Command said American fighter-bombers flew no strikes in South Vietnam during the period.

U.S. military sources said there was no sign that enemy troops poised along South Vietnam's western borders with Laos and Cambodia were withdrawing. They said the Communist command was still capable of launching a major offensive.

Heavy U.S. air strikes continued against the Ho Chi Minh trail in Laos, North Vietnam's supply line to the South. Sources said American warplanes were averaging 200 to 300 strikes a day against the 250-mile network.

The South Vietnamese command reported 13 enemy attacks during the 24-hour period ending at dawn today, the lowest in 2½ weeks. Since Feb. 11, enemy attacks have been averaging more than 30 a day.

South Vietnamese officers in the field said their forces killed the commander of Viet Cong troops in the two provinces south of Da Nang in an ambush just before dusk Wednesday. Officers said Lt. Col. Huynh Phuoc Thua, who commanded about 600 local force troops, was the highest ranking Viet Cong killed in the region in two years.

In the political sphere, President Nguyen Van Thieu said he would welcome a conference of Southeast Asia nations to neutralize the area.

A brief communique said Thieu offered to hold the summit conference in Saigon. He said North Vietnam would be welcome.

The communique summarized an interview which Thieu gave Wednesday to C.L. Sulzberger, foreign affairs columnist of The New York Times. Apparently Sulzberger had asked Thieu to comment on the proposal last December by ASEAN—the Association of Southeast Asia Nations—that the entire area be neutralized and the neutrality guaranteed by the big powers.

South Vietnam is not a member of ASEAN but attends its meetings as an observer. Thieu opposed the proposal then, but the communique today said he told Sulzberger his government would not oppose neutralization if all countries of the area participated in the neutralization conference, the resulting agreement prohibited armed aggression in the area by world powers, and countries of the area were similarly prohibited from aggression or allowing their territory to be used for aggression.

Panel OKs Kleindienst

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee today unanimously approved President Nixon's nomination of Richard G. Kleindienst to be attorney general.

The committee's action on a 13-0 vote finally cleared the way for Senate confirmation of the 48-year-old Arizona by the Senate next week, possibly by the time Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell's resignation becomes effective March 1.

The committee also unanimously approved the nomination of L. Patrick Gray III of New London, Conn., to succeed Kleindienst as deputy attorney general.

Gray now is an assistant attorney general in charge of the Justice Department's civil division.

The committee agreed to file its report to the Senate by next Tuesday.

Jacqueline Onassis Denies Spot Story

NEW YORK (AP) — Jacqueline Onassis has denied a report that her marriage to Aristotle Onassis almost broke up when she followed him to Paris and "threw herself into his arms, bursting into tears."

The report appeared in McCall's magazine in excerpts from the book, "The Fabulous Onassis," by Christian Cafa-rakis, a former chief steward aboard the Onassis yacht.

Refile Income Tax Petitions

Plan Would Repeal Assembly Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — "We think we have covered all the points raised by the attorney general in his earlier opinion," Rep. Joseph Tulley said in refiling petitions to put the new state income tax to a statewide vote.

Tulley, chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, and three other Republican legislators behind the repeal movement, submitted the petitions Wednesday to Asst. Atty. Gen. Anthony Gretick.

"We'll give these petitions every consideration," Gretick told the group.

Atty. Gen. William Brown, who rejected the group's first petitions several weeks ago, was vacationing in Florida.

Brown had found that the summary of the original initial petition did not accurately state what a vote for the proposed constitutional amendment would do.

Tulley said the second batch of petitions bore 175 signatures. A total 100 valid signatures is needed to launch the movement to get the tax issue on the November ballot.

If the attorney general approves the form of the petitions, they would go to Secretary of State Ted Brown for printing and then into general circulation to seek the 318,404 signatures required to put the issue on the ballot.

If the required number of signatures is acquired, voters will decide on a proposed constitutional amendment which would repeal the income tax Jan. 1, 1973, and provide that any future state income tax proposal be approved by the voters.

The current tax, which went into effect Jan. 1, was enacted by the legislature.

Tulley was accompanied to the attorney general's office by Reps. Ray Luther, R-19 Newark; Robert Levitt, R-91 Canton; and Chester Cruze, R-68 Cincinnati.

Nixon View Of China Only Shell?

PEKING (AP) — When President and Mrs. Nixon visited the 500-year-old Ming tombs outside Peking today, they found scores of apparently holidaying Chinese carrying new transistor radios and sporting colorful garb the First Family had not seen elsewhere in the country.

After the Nixons left, functionaries went among the people, collecting the radios.

As the President and Mrs. Nixon approached the tomb of the Emperor Chang Ling, they paused to watch four Chinese schoolgirls singing and jumping rope. The Nixons beamed, shook hands and chatted with the four youngsters and the two women who held the rope for them. As soon as the Nixons turned to enter the tombs, the little girls took off the bright ribbons around their pigtails, rolled up their rope and departed.

At one outdoor concrete picnic table just below the towering pagoda of the tombs, two couples played cards in the 27-degree cold while American television photographers recorded them.

They, too, picked up their cards and vanished soon after the Nixons left.

Newsmen asked a senior member of the White House staff how he thought the people had come to the remote site, some miles from any population center, in a country which has few automobiles and only a limited number of tourist buses. "You raise a good point," he replied.

Transportation Coordinator Needed By Red Cross Chapter

Need for volunteer drivers by Circleville Chapter of the American Red Cross was discussed during its Wednesday evening meeting at headquarters. Mrs. Roloff (Ethel Mae) Wolford, executive secretary, said that someone is needed who will be in charge of all transportation, arrange schedules, alert drivers and passengers as to exact time and route.

Mrs. Wolford spoke of the blood program. Persons who are to undergo surgery where transfusions may be necessary are requested to notify the Red Cross office in advance when possible. This holds true for county residents entering other hospitals also. She explained that the blood is free but the hospital charges for testing and service and sometimes patients believe they are paying for the blood itself.

John Sanders, first aid chairman, told how local plants are sending men for instruction in first aid to teach other employees.

Mrs. Wolford said that the many fires this year causing great loss to residents of Pickaway County has depleted the budget allotment for disasters.

It was announced that Mrs. Talmer Wise has permitted the use of her husband's name for a memorial fund to purchase a station wagon needed by the chapter.

The response by area persons to the need of clothing and other articles for fire victims was praised by Mrs. Wolford.

A donation from REACT of two radios to be placed in the station wagons was made by John Sanders. The radios and antennas after installation will permit drivers to contact the local office in the event of a change of route or delay and in turn the chapter can contact each car and give needed instructions. The radios will also be helpful in the event of accidents or other emergencies.

The annual covered-dish dinner of Pickaway County Chapter will be 6:30 p.m. March 22 in the dining room of Community United Methodist Church. Jan Wriston, division representative, will be guest speaker. The nominating committee will present a slate of officers for the coming year.

Program Set For CBMC's Annual Fete

LT. COL. NIMROD MCNAIR

Lt. Col. Nimrod McNair Jr. will be the speaker at the Christian Business Men's Committee of Circleville annual banquet 6:30 p.m. Saturday at the L-K Restaurant, it was announced today by Dale DeLong, program chairman.

In addition to the speaker, the program will include a group song, explanation of CBMC by Charles Wellman, a discussion by Denny Williams, Circleville High School football coach, and a vocal solo by Roger Allen.

Lt. Col. McNair is a native of Tuscaloosa, Ala., and graduated from the University of Alabama in 1949 with a bachelor of science degree in chemical engineering.

He received his master of science degree in Aerospace engineering in 1961 from the Air Force Institute of Technology.

He is a command pilot and rated navigator with over 4,000 hours in various types of aircraft.

In October, 1969, he returned from Vietnam where he flew over 600 combat hours and 110 reconnaissance missions. He was awarded the Air Force Distinguished Flying Cross, the Air Medal with 3 Oak Leaf Clusters, and the Air Force Commendation Medal. Col. McNair is a member of the Engineering Fraternity of Tau Beta Pi, a member of the officers Christian Union, vice chairman of the CBMC of Dayton and chairman of the Dayton Christian Schools Inc.

He is currently assigned to Wright-Patterson Air Force Base as deputy director of Reconnaissance Engineering for the Deputy for Engineering of the aeronautical systems division.

Lt. Col. McNair is married and has two children, a daughter 18 and son 12.

Local officers of CBMC are Robert Lloyd, chairman; Paul Elswick, vice chairman; John Magill, secretary; Harry Betz, treasurer; H. H. Shuttlesworth, Robert Tacy, Charles Wellman, Dale DeLong and Tom Hockman, directors.

Miss Davis is required to report once a week to the Santa Clara County Probation Department. Mrs. Walker said she had already met with probation chief Wylie Smith.

The bail order also prohibits her from attending or participating in public meetings or rallies without court approval, forbids her possession of firearms and requires that she obey a ban on pretrial publicity.

Ba Da Ling gate high on a nearby mountain, the President said: "We will not climb the mountain today. We are already meeting at the summit in Peking."

The vice premier responded with praise of Nixon for "a great speech."

"The American people are a great people," Li added.

The trip delayed the start of Nixon's daily meeting with Chou until 5:15 p.m.

The premier was the host today, at the Great Hall of the People, and the Chinese dispensed with the preliminaries of the previous sessions.

News men were not invited in for a photo session, as they had been on the three previous days, and the Chinese quickly escorted them from the building.

Nixon was accompanied as usual by Dr. Henry A. Kissinger, the President's chief adviser on national security. Secretary of State Rogers continued his separate talks with Foreign Minister Chi.

Kissinger did not accompany the Nixons to the Great Wall, having visited it when he came to Peking earlier to arrange the President's trip. White House press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said Kissinger remained at the guest house compound working on matters relating to the President's stay in China and other national security affairs.

There has been speculation that during the stay in Peking Kissinger would meet with Le Duc Tho, the member of the North Vietnamese Politburo with whom he held secret talks in Paris last year on the Vietnam war. But Ziegler, in answer to a question, said Kissinger had not met during the morning with any North Vietnamese representatives.

The President will get a bit more sightseeing Friday on a trip with his wife to the Forbidden City, the vast royal palace behind the Tien An Men Square. Once forbidden to all but the court and its guests, it is now Peking's chief tourist attraction.

Icy Roads Blamed For Nine Accidents, Three Injuries

The Pickaway County Sheriff's Department investigated nine accidents Wednesday afternoon that injured three people as County roads became slippery after .13 inch ice pellets fell, thawed and then refroze.

Two people were injured 12:05 p.m. Wednesday on the Tarlton-Adelphi Rd. when a car carrying 6 people went out of control and flipped onto its top.

Helen Ferguson, 19, Route 2, Laurelville, driver of the car, was taken to a doctor for right arm injuries.

Laurie Ann Ferguson, 4-months, was treated for minor facial lacerations.

According to Deputy Sheriff J. Phillip Brown, the Ferguson car was northbound on the Tarlton-Adelphi Rd., traveled left of center after skidding on the icy surface, came back across to the right side of the road and flipped after snapping an electric wire.

The car was a total loss.

Glenna Armentrout, 20, Route 1, Williamsport, suffered a bump to her forehead, abrasions to her left leg and shock, after her car skidded off the left side of Route 56 3:10 p.m. Wednesday.

According to Deputy Bob Hoover, Mrs. Armentrout was attempting to pass a car when she lost control of her vehicle destroying two steel posts and 20 feet of wire fencing owned by Paul Thompson, Route 2, Circleville, before coming to rest on its top in the ditch.

Several motorists failed to stop and lend aid. But a passing truck driver finally freed Mrs. Armentrout from the wreckage and called the Sheriff's Department.

Karen Gerhardt, 24, New Holland, escaped with minor bruises when she lost control of her car on ice covered Route 22, 11:55 a.m. Wednesday while attempting to pass another car.

Her car went left of center slid on the road and came to rest on its top on the berm.

Guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Dearth on Sunday were their daughters and families, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Dickershed, Annette, Dan and Pamela of Columbus and Dr. and Mrs. James McMullen, Melinda, John and Amy of Wilmington.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Parker Jr. and son, Joe visited her mother, Mrs. Kelson Bower in Berger Hospital, Sunday afternoon. Mrs. Bower is a medical patient and hopes to be released soon.

Mr. Russell Ortman, president of the Zane Trace Parent Teachers Association was in charge of the meeting last Tuesday night in the High School. The Jitney Supper sponsored annually by the Band Mothers was announced for March 3 with serving from 5 to 7 p.m. At 7:30 there will be a band concert in the high school auditorium.

After the business meeting, Mr. Don Fetrow took charge and with his Junior Band presented several number including the "Dixieland Blues" featuring Carolyn Eselgroth, Susan Jones, and Jennifer Payne and "The Battle Hymn of the Republic" featuring Jeff Holman on the drums.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Sherry Zeigler and her Home Ec. class.

Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Davis and children, Jim and Kristi were Sunday dinner guests of her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Waters at their home in Westerville.

Mr. and Mrs. Paul Miller and their son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Sam Miller of Dayton spent the holiday weekend with relatives in Madison, Illinois, including Mrs. Miller's father, Joseph Konieczny and her brothers and sisters and their families.

Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth DeLong were notified by the Red Cross on Friday that a daughter, Michele Christine, weighing eight pounds, one-fourth ounce had been born that day to their son and daughter-in-law, Captain and Mrs. James DeLong (Kathleen Whitten) in Zwiebrucken, Germany. Their son two and half year old Gary was also born in Germany. Maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Whitten, Chillicothe, Route 1.

Mrs. William Shaffer and her son, Mr. James Shaffer of Columbus were Sunday guests of her sister and husband, Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Kerns. Additional guests were Mr. and Mrs. Larry Kerns and son, Kent. Mrs. Shaffer remained for a few days.

Mrs. Mary Stockham and Mrs. June McAfee, representing the Kingston and Salem Methodist Churches were among seventeen persons who visited the Twin Towers retirement home in Cincinnati on Sunday. The Methodist Churches are planning to contribute to construction of Hillview another Retirement Home in Portsmouth.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Rittinger were guest speakers at the meeting of the Isabelle Thoburn Circle, Thursday night at the home of Mrs. Carroll Minor. The Rittingers, with two other ladies from the Chillicothe area, spent some time as working missionaries at the South West Indian School at Glendale, Ariz. and in addition to describing their experiences, showed colored slides and showed pottery, rugs and jewelry made at the school.

Thirteen members and four guests were present. Guests were Mrs. Herbert Lemley, Mrs. Eugene Norris, Mrs. Lois Jones and Mrs. Kittenger, Carousal Trailer Court.

The president, Mrs. Ed Flugge, presided and The Lay Witness Mission to be conducted by the church on April 7, 8 and 9 was discussed. Invitations have been sent to prospective guest speakers in several states and they will be named at a later date. Mrs. Flugge gave the devotion and read a poem, "Others" a story from Guidepost Magazine, "Enclosed With a Golden Gem" and a prayer.

Mrs. Larry Walls and Mrs. Michael Wright will be hostesses for the next meeting.

Sunday evening dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Willard McCarty were Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Caplinger, Lynn and Angela of Chillicothe.

State Department Workers Ponder Union Affiliation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The State Department, with its image of dignified diplomats going about the business of foreign affairs clad in pin-striped suits, is facing an experience more common to steel mills. Its employees are organizing.

The immediate issue is what organization will represent the 9,000 foreign-service officers and staff workers, the American Foreign Service Association or the American Federation of Government Employees.

But the situation envelops the over-all effort for reform within the department and charges that high-level promotions are being affected by political considerations.

Under terms of a presidential executive order, State workers are to choose an organization to represent them in employee-management relations.

The procedure is a starting place for outlining the dispute between the two groups with AFSA charging its rival, the largest labor organization in the federal government, with delaying tactics.

AFGE officials acknowledge they aren't ready for a vote because they feel more time is needed to make their case and to overcome the built-in advantages they say AFSA enjoys. Some 8,000 State employees already belong to AFSA while AFGE's rolls total in the hundreds.

The arguments are centered on whether AFSA is, in the words of a rival leader, "just another name for management."

The counter-arguments are that AFGE has no real conception of the problems within the department and is not concerned over the real issues because it is largely a civil-service union.

An example of the dispute is seen in the two groups' reactions to a decision by the head of the U.S. Information Agency to personally choose employees for promotion to the agency's top rank.

USIA is one of the State Department's agencies and AFSA is fighting hard against the move by director Frank Shakespeare, charging he is violating the Foreign Service Act and substituting politics for merit in the promotion system.

AFGE, on the other hand,

Self-Defense

Increasing street assaults on women, and holdups of business establishments — especially in large cities — have focused attention on the question of self-defense.

When a shopkeeper in New York City shoots a holdup man, he invariably gets into trouble with the law. It is considered unsportsmanlike to fight back when molested in Fun City.

It seems to many that laws operate chiefly to disarm the lawabiding. Criminals have no difficulty obtaining weapons and no compunction about using them on defenseless citizens.

Anti-weapon laws rest on the assumption that the public is adequately protected by duly constituted authority. Yet the incidence of attacks on women is proof that streets are inadequately patrolled.

Police advise women to run if molested. One police spokeswoman even recommends submission rather than resistance, not very helpful advice to a woman confronted by a rapist.

If anti-weapon laws are to command the respect of law-abiding citizens and if there is not to be widespread demand for their modification, better policing is imperative.

This May Work

In the fear of the drug culture in which heroin and other opium derivatives are producing addicts, the amphetamines have fallen suspect. People have been noticing that a lot of amphetamine sulfate pills are on the market for the number of ills for which they're designed.

There is also evidence beyond the reasonable doubts of most that there are more of them on the illicit market than the licit.

For that reason, the U.S. government has cracked down on production. It's a dramatic cutback — 82 per cent below last year's.

Heroin is a menace which looms from abroad. The amphetamines are strictly home-made. A quota has been placed on exports. There was a suspicion that a large percentage of the amphetamines exported to Mexico legally returned to this country legally.

Amphetamines cannot be compared to heroin in lethal qualities. Still, different individuals react to different drugs in different ways. Amphetamines are the kind of drug which should be administered and controlled by a physician's prescription.

All in all, the government crackdown is a wise step. Among its benefits: In the frustrating fight against dangerous drugs, this is a program that might work.

Phoning The Mayor

One of the burdens of public office is the telephone. It keeps an official available to his constituents and they don't hesitate to use it.

One New England mayor estimates he averages 10 to 32 calls a night at home, and another says his phone sometimes keeps ringing until midnight. Most callers want information or to push favorite projects, some have complaints, some report howling cats and others are future voters whose only current problem is homework.

The mayors are entitled to a measure of sympathy; the public is not always reasonable. But as one mayor asserts, "We asked for it."

Indeed they did, and those who yearn for the peace of private life can always return to it.

Dock, Coal Strikes

By JEFFERY HART

In a previous column I called attention to one feature of the Elizabeth McAllister-Phil Berrigan correspondence made public last May as part of the indictment against the Harrisburg Seven. The letters are highly worldly in tone, and are scarcely compatible with the image of idealistic babes-in-Toyland priests and nuns so assiduously cultivated by the media.

The letters are fascinating documents in other respects, and certain passages, when pondered, throw a good deal of light on Phil Berrigan's mentality and help to explain much about this bizarre case.

Consider, for example, these Berrigan sentences about Ebal Ahmad, the Pakistani scholar named as a co-defendant: "I have this terrible suspicion regarding academics. With few exceptions, the bastards will let others go to the gallows without serious murmur. They did it in Germany and they're doing it here. And E is from that strain."

The extremity of the language here is the first thing you notice, initially of course, in the virtually reflexive comparison between Berrigan's position and that of those who resisted Adolf Hitler, but also in the self-dramatizing "gallows." But Berrigan is not living in a country that resembles Nazi Germany and he is not going to the gallows. In actuality some of the biggest names in the legal profession are defending him, he is a hero to many and to the media, and it will not be at all easy even to convict him.

And what about that generalization regarding "academics"? It is drawn from the stereotype of the academic as talker rather than man of action, but I know of no evidence to support it either here or in Germany. Were German academics more acquiescent than, say the clergy? I doubt it. What you sense in Berrigan's prose is a simplicity of assertion that has left the real world far behind.

That simplicity, moreover, glides toward violence, which Berrigan accepts with Humphrey Bogart-like equanimity. In the plan to kidnap Kissinger, he wrote: "... the first time opens the door to murder ... when I refer to murder it is not to prohibit absolutely (violence against non-violence bag) it is merely to observe that one has set the precedent, and that, later on, when gov't resistance to this sort of thing stiffens, men will be killed."

What produces this equanimity, of course, is an absolutely unshakable self-righteousness. If we do "this sort of thing" then "men will be killed." So be it. Cheap at the price.

Or, finally, contemplate this passage in which Berrigan projects with no little relish a scenario for the Kissinger caper:

"Why not grab the Brain Child, treat him decently, but tell him nothing of his fate — or tell him his fate hinges on release of pol. people or cessation of air strikes in Laos. Then have batteries of movement people — Brain Child blindfolded — engage him on policy. After he has been taught (the consideration of his safety will make him more and more human in his answers) get it filmed and recorded. One thing should be implanted in that pea brain — that respectable murderers like himself are no longer inviolable."

What this scene suggests is the sort of brain-washing technique actually employed by the Communists to produce their own propaganda films: "get it filmed and recorded" indeed.

The overall impression of the correspondence is weirdly claustrophobic. These people have talked only among themselves for so long that, within that conversation, actually anything can be suggested. No external correctives interfere.

FRIDAY'S HOROSCOPE

GENERAL TENDENCIES: Until noon startling and dramatic influences are in effect that could cause considerable concern about whether changes should be made. However, in the afternoon and evening you see clearly what the wisest course is and can make some long-range plans that can bring a successful conclusion.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Don't argue with an associate in the morning. Concentrate on how to have more harmony at home. You have to use caution where some unexpected opportunity rises and then it is yours. Work on it tonight.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) The morning is not good for stating your thoughts to others, so be sure to have lunch first. Use good methods and judgment and get right results. Stop working so much on the emotions.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) Instead of fussing at home or office about delays, etc., get busy on worthwhile outside activities. Show that you use logic where the future is concerned. Make plans now that are good.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Use good judgment and keep your emotions in check. Give others a pat on the back where deserved. Know what it is that is expected of you and try to please to the best of your ability.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) You can go to librarians, statisticians, etc., to get the information you need for some special project you have in mind. Show you have a good business head on your shoulders. More devotion to mate is wise in p.m.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) The afternoon is best for getting into that group affairs that pleases you, brings you in contact with charming people. Make new plans for the future that are brilliant. Try to be more prompt in the days ahead.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you use your Libra charm, you can get the support you need from an influential person today. Search for items that can make your work more efficient and bring in a greater profit. Avoid one who cheats and lies.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) You have an opportunity to secure the information you need from new contacts. You can make those changes that are necessary very easily. Don't give way to histrionics that could get quite annoying.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Plan with closest tie how to have a more happy and affluent future together and do a little butting up instead of criticizing. Take care of that responsibility which would have been difficult to do before now. Use right methods.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You can clear up that disagreement with an associate provided you are willing to share instead of taking all the profits. Come to a true meeting of minds. Plan some nice trip in the near future. Study brochures.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Become familiar with all the ramifications of some big job you want to do before you tackle it. Show your finest ability at it. Find the right outfit that will last you a long while, though a bit expensive, and it will be a good investment.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) After your work is done, join with people of similar bent where recreation is concerned and have a delightful time. Some fascinating creative idea can be put in operation quietly and successfully now. Do so.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those people who early in life will always be making changes, stirring things up, but upon reaching maturity will settle down to a steady course of action and be most loyal to the few real friends made who are most worthwhile. Then the success here can be considerable and there will never be want or difficulties that amount to anything. Fine mind for mathematics.

"The Stars impel, they do not compel." What you make of your life is largely up to YOU!

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Feb. 24, the 55th day of 1972. There are 311 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1920, the Nazi party was organized in Germany.

On this date:

In 1761, James Otis of Massachusetts protested against the English system of search and seizure, declaring "a man's house is his castle."

In 1868, impeachment proceedings against President Andrew Johnson were begun in Congress.

In 1902, the United States acquired a naval station on Cuba's Guantanamo Bay.

In 1922, Henri Landru, a notorious Frenchman known as Bluebeard, was executed at Versailles, France, for murdering 10 lady friends.

In 1945, American troops liberated the Philippine capital of Manila from Japanese occupation during World War II.

In 1946, Juan Peron was elected president of Argentina. Ten years ago: At least 25 persons, mostly Moslems, were slain during a terrorist outbreak in Algiers.

Five years ago: The death toll was put at 40 in violent windstorms that swept northern Europe.

One year ago: Algeria announced it was seizing a controlling interest in all French oil companies in that country.

Nobel Winner Talks To POWs

HONG KONG (AP) — An American Nobel Prize winner said Wednesday he saw and talked to a number of captured U.S. pilots in Hanoi last week, including one taken prisoner less than two months ago.

George Wald, a professor at Harvard University, said the POWs were in excellent shape physically and mentally.

He is believed to be the first visiting American to talk to any U.S. POWs held by the North Vietnamese for at least two years.

Wald, who holds strong anti-war views, was interviewed in Hong Kong after completing a one-month visit to China and a one-week trip to North Vietnam.

Wald declined to identify any of the pilots he spoke to.

Lee Marvin Sued For Half Of Assets

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Singer Michelle Marvin, who says she lived with Lee Marvin for six years without marrying him, is suing the Oscar-winning actor for half of his assets. She estimated his worth at more than $1 million.

The Business World

By JOHN CUNIFF

NEW YORK (AP) — In the world of personal finance and investments there are innumerable assumptions so taken for granted that for years they remain unquestioned.

During this time they become the basis of theories, are offered as proof in arguments and are acted upon, sometimes successfully. A rumor, for example, sometimes has the same stock market effect as a fact.

Generally, however, false information is costly to the user, so see if you can determine which of these statements is accurate:

—If you use credit cards the chances are you won't have to use as many checks as before because your card will serve as a substitute.

It appears to be true, but experience doesn't back it up. A study by Georgia Tech for the Federal Reserve Bank of Atlanta tends to show a correlation between the number of checks written and credit cards used.

The study indicates that as gross income increases for a family so does the use of checks—and so also does the use of credit cards.

Four billion checks were written in 1941, when credit cards were rather insignificant. Twenty-three billion were written last year, and banking officials are becoming quite concerned as they foresee 40 billion by 1980.

—The median price of new one-family houses keeps rising every year.

This seems to be so, but an important asterisk should be noted. The fact is that in 1970 the median price actually fell to $23,400 from $25,600 in 1969. That appears to be a good-size decline, especially during inflation.

But there was a reason. Many builders fearing they might price their product out of the market therefore reduced the size. The median price was indeed smaller, but so was the size of the median house.

—The median in which interest is compounded can make a big difference in a short time for small savers.

That's what you hear, but it may not be what you get. After two years of depositing $25 a month at 5 per cent, for example, you would have $629.07 with daily compounding, $628.39 with annual compounding.

Compounding works its magic over extended periods, when the interest begets interest. But over the short-term it really doesn't make itself very visible for small savers.

—Most families now have a savings account.

This appears to be the case. The Survey Research Center at the University of Michigan found in 1970 that nearly two-thirds of all families had accounts and that the median holding—half above, half below—was $1,300.

But if families have been saving at a rate of more than 8 per cent of take-home pay shouldn't the figures be even higher? It would, after all, take only two years to save that amount on a take-home pay of $8,500.

According To Boyle

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — How can you tell if you're middle-aged?

Not by the calendar—who lets his life be ruled by a calendar?—but by how you feel and what you think and do.

You're probable middle-aged if—

You cross to the other side of the street when you see three rowdy-looking teenage boys coming your way.

You have been such a frequent visitor to the dentist lately that you and he call each other by their first names.

On the other hand, your wife now addresses you half the time as "Father," and every once in a while you absent-mindedly address her as "Mother," and then you hate yourself afterward for slipping into such matrimonial jargon.

You get so short of breath while tying your shoes each morning that you decide you simply must get more exercise—"one of these days."

Now and then when you hear a ringing you have to pause and consider whether it's the telephone or just something in your ears.

Every politician who makes a speech reminds you of some other politician who delivered the same speech—but more impressively—some time ago.

Whenurchins at play in the streets ask you what time it is they call you "Pops."

The old-timers at the office slowly and silently begin to accept you as an equal at the water cooler.

You don't find fault with people your own age so much. You feel that about everything anyone does can be blamed either on his glands or his heredity, neither of which he can control.

Fifteen minutes is about all you can stand being around a new baby—and you'd rather look at one than pick it up.

You don't expect Harvard or Yale to throw open welcoming doors to you. You're over- come with gratitude if any small college will take him in out of the rain for four years.

Instead of smoking 10 cigars a day you cut the number down to four, but it still doesn't make your stomach feel as good as you thought it would. Every time a new antacid pill comes on the market, it finds you among its first customers.

You still daydream of performing feats of derring-do but actually your major act of courage is occasionally leaving a smaller-than-usual tip to a surly waiter.

Now and then you are swept by a strange and wistful feeling that something is missing in your life, but you don't know what it is or what you can do about it.

Yes, that's middle age. But cheer up. It doesn't last forever.

Editor's Note: Columnist Boyle recently entered youthful middle age.

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Two conferences devoted to the care and the problems of aging are deeply imprinted in my consciousness. Both can best be titled, "Caring for the Aged" rather than "Care for the Aged."

The first conference took place in September, 1971 at Ruschlikon-Zurich, under the auspices of the Gottlieb Duttweiler Institute for Economic and Social Studies. A brilliant program, designed by Dr. John G. Cartwright, director of the Institute, brought leaders from every corner of the world to contribute their thoughts to the control of human aging, and to give dignity to those who are privileged to attain respected longevity.

The Institute is privately endowed, and devotes itself to the social advances that must go hand in hand with our scientific advances if the elderly are to have the full benefit of enduring years.

Without dignity and without support, the achievement of old age can be a burden. But added years, lived out in security and the comforting knowledge that one is loved and wanted, can indeed by the finest gift of this era of advanced civilization.

I was privileged to attend this conference and to learn of the varied and expansive programs that considered the health, the economic, and the social needs of the elderly. It seemed almost impossible that my enthusiasm for this conference would soon be matched by another that took place in early December, 1971, when President Richard M. Nixon called a White House Conference on the Aging in Washington.

In his welcome address to the thousands at the conference, he said, "We need a new national attitude toward older people in this country, and that attitude must be one which recognizes that America, whatever it does for its older citizens, fully appreciates what our older citizens can do for America

"Older Americans have much to give this country. The best thing this country can give to them is a chance to be a part of it, a chance to play a continuing role in the great American adventure."

The White House Conference on the Aging took up the challenge, and brought forth a vast series of plans for social, economic and health reforms for the elderly.

The philosophy of both these conferences can be summed up by the hope that the aging processes can be slowed down by medical research and that the aged will be encouraged to continue to be productive members of our society.

For the elderly, time is a precious commodity. For them there is immediate urgency to witness creative and innovative programs.

I think that these conferences have taken the problems of the elderly out of a world morass of stagnation and substituted viable methods to bring to them the happiness and comfort that are their birthright.

Nixon Sets Drive In All 50 States

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon told Republican governors he will mount a campaign for all 50 states in the presidential election next November.

"One of my strongest convictions is that a candidate for president under no circumstances should write off any section of the country or any state in the country," Nixon said in a letter written before his departure for Peking to Gov. William Milliken, of Michigan, chairman of the Republican Governors Association.

Nun Testifies She Helped Forward Berrigan Letters

HARRISBURG, Pa. (AP) — A nun says she acted as a mail drop and accepted letters sent secretly to Sister Elizabeth McAlister, one of six defendants accused of conspiring with antiwar priest Philip Berrigan to kidnap presidential adviser Henry A. Kissinger.

"She felt some of her mail was being looked at, and I felt she didn't want to have the mail seen, and I respected that," Sister Judith Savard said Wednesday in describing her role to a federal jury of nine women and three men.

Both nuns were assigned at the time to the provincial house of the religious order of the Sacred Heart of Mary in New York City, but Sister McAlister was living elsewhere.

Sister Savard, wearing high brown boots and a green woolen plaid dress with hem just below the knee, said Sister McAlister made the request casually one summer day in 1970.

"She asked me . . . as a favor if I'd receive some mail for her, and I said, 'Yes, I would,'" the 32-year-old nun testified. "She said I'd recognize the letters by the Lewisburg postmark."

Sister Savard said she received "maybe four" letters over six weeks, all postmarked Lewisburg, Pa., the site of the federal penitentiary where Berrigan was serving a six-year term for destroying draft files. The government alleges the mail drop was part of an illicit communications network in which at least one other nun participated that enabled Berrigan to mastermind antiwar actions from his prison cell.

His letters, according to the prosecution, were smuggled out by a fellow convict allowed to attend classes in nearby Bucknell University. The government says the courier, Boyd Douglas Jr., 32, informed the FBI. He is expected to be the government's chief witness at this trial.

Sister Savard, a member of the faculty at Marymount Manhattan College, said she either gave the letters to Sister McAlister personally or wrote her name on them and left them for her.

'Barefoot In The Park' Provides Pleasant Finale

By MICHELE HULSE
Herald Staff Writer

Roundtown Players' "Barefoot in the Park" has a few thorns on the ground during the first act that make it touchy going, but the players rally as the production progresses granting the audience a pleasant and almost sparkling finale.

Neil Simon's play is a charmer and naturally builds itself for all its laughs, so when some of the vital lines are tossed out a bit awkwardly, it is able to withstand and continue on.

A young couple, surviving two weeks of married life, discover their marriage is on the rocks because he won't properly "pop" the exotic hors d'oeuvres and doesn't find the idea of an upstairs flat with a hole in the skylight romantic. She resents his work, which interferes with their time together and delights in the oddity of their neighbors. To complicate matters, she arranges a date for her mother with the "dirty old man" living in the attic.

Stars of glory in this play go to Frank Vavroch, who has a bit part as a telephone repairman. He carries the comic attitude that is so essential to "Barefoot's" success and which the other players often forget.

JOY Rae, as Corie Bratter, jumps from passable to good in her portrayal of the new young wife with romantic ideas and little else. Her husband Paul, a character molded by Steve Stevenson, helps maintain the play by remaining constant, thinking, conservative and totally incapable of understanding or correcting the absurdities of his wife.

Charles Hosterman, as the dirty old man of 48 who happens to live in apartment 7A (that's the attic), demonstrates that he is capable of assuming that role in real life in a few years. His costuming is unbelievable, about as unbelievable as his character, but he is delightful to observe. He has some of the best lines, too many of which are dampened by a lack in response by female cast members.

The laughs in the Players' production are centered mainly in the scene where Mr. and Mrs. Bratter have their first fight.

Mrs. Rae finally drops the mature air which hampered her previous lines and goes for total ridiculousness with splendid results.

"Barefoot in the Park" will provide an entertaining evening for audiences at the Thursday, Friday and Saturday evening performances, but spectacular it isn't.

DULUTH, Minn. (AP) — Actress Patty Duke was hospitalized Tuesday with a kidney ailment.

Miss Duke is in Duluth for the filming of the motion picture, "You'll Like My Mother."

Producer Mort Briskin, who described Miss Duke's ailment as "not serious," said work on the film was shut down until the actress returns.

Seek Curb On Courts

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ohio Atty. Gen. William Brown voiced support Wednesday for legislation to restrict the power of federal courts in the granting of habeas corpus writs to defendants in state and local cases.

Brown was among several spokesmen for the National Association of Attorneys General presenting testimony to a House Judiciary subcommittee hearing a bill to limit the authority of federal courts in the granting of habeas corpus writs to state prisoners on constitutional grounds.

Brown said Ohio defendants have plenty of appeal opportunities.

The measure before the subcommittee, he said, "will greatly benefit Ohio . . . enable the Criminal Activities Section to function in areas other than federal habeas corpus and prevent a further drain of manpower from other areas."

Man Missing Since 1964 Now 'Dead'

CINCINNATI (AP)—The mysterious disappearance of Cincinnati insurance broker George Hammerlein in 1964 was revived Wednesday when his wife had him declared legally dead.

Hamilton County Probate Court Judge Chase Davies, however, said the finding will not become final for 15 weeks, while the decision is advertised.

Hammerlein was last seen Dec. 2, 1964, by his wife Esther, when he left his fashionable Walnut Hills home telling her he was going to a business meeting.

His car was found later on the Ohio River bank at New Richmond, Ohio. Dragging operations in the river found nothing. A search in Florida, where Hammerlein had extensive real estate holdings, also proved fruitless.

The court was told Wednesday that Hammerlein's personal estate of $750,000 had grown to more than $1 million since his disappearance.

Relatives must wait for the final decision before Hammerlein's will can be filed in probate court.

Hammerlein left the General Protested Orphan Home at the age of 18 to become a cobbler and later a chauffeur while studying accounting and business at the University of Cincinnati Evening College.

In 1934 Hammerlein became an insurance agent and three years later opened his own agency, which is now operated by his son, Bud.

Hammerlein had also become a trustee of the orphanage and was elected mayor of suburban Amberley Village in the early 1950's.

HONOLULU (AP) — She's probably never heard of Gloria Steinem or other women libbers. For as little as $1.60 an hour, she'll meet your best friend at the airport, throw a Hawaiian lei around his neck and give him a kiss.

She's presented gifts to the Queen of England, kissed a leibedecked Marlon Brando, welcomed congressmen and ambassadors, bid farewell to astronauts and charmed the Queen of Tonga and a prince of Arabia.

She'll even help your Aunt Martha from Missouri find her baggage and get her in a taxi bound for her hotel. She may even arrange to have a bottle of champagne waiting there.

She's a greeting girl. Her grass skirt has been replaced by a muu-muu and her services no longer are free — unless you are a dignitary. But she's spiritually akin to the girls who a century ago swam out to meet weary sailors on the shores of these islands.

Diane Berger Speaker For Nurses Assn.

Mrs. Alan (Diane) Berger presented the program for the February meeting of Licensed Practical Nurses Assn. in the home of Mrs. Henry Mankey, 203 W. Mound St. She spoke of the value of physical therapy.

Charlotte Hill, president, presided over the business meeting and read the poem "Praying Hands."

Four new members accepted into the association are: Martha Timmons, Marilyn Eitel, Janet Young and Ella Adams.

Cards of sympathy were signed to be sent to the Grover Dresbach and Mary Pickel families.

Refreshments were served by Anna Mankey and Louise Garner.

The next meeting will be Monday, March 20th at Calvary United Methodist Church.

In mid-January a cold wave from Canada forced temperatures to 58 below zero in Bemidji, Minn.

Child Study Club Preps For 'Lazy-Eye' Clinic

Basic procedures utilized by the Circleville High School Band and instruction on an upcoming "Lazy-Eye" clinic were highlights of a busy session when Child Study Club met Monday evening in the home of Mrs. Richard Bircher, 575 Edgewood Drive.

Gary Dean, CHS band director, outlined many of the fundamentals necessary for a successful band presentation. The Amblyopia (lazy eye) instruction was presented by Dr. David Smith, local optometrist.

The band director's talk included the showing of a film of the CHS band during a performance at West Jefferson. He also explained procedures used at band rehearsals.

Dr. Smith's instruction period served as a prelude to the Lazy-Eye Clinic the Child Study Club will conduct March 12th in the United Methodist Church basement. All members of the club will participate in the 1 to 6 p.m. program.

The purpose of the clinic is to screen pre-school youngsters for suspicious signs of vision defects. Professional eye examinations will be recommended for children found to have possible afflictions.

The screening will be offered to all local three to six year olds free of charge.

Mrs. David Smith will serve as clinic chairman. Publicity will be handled by Mrs. Don Harden.

Members voted to purchase a portable hair dryer for patient use at the hospital. Mary Stevenson was authorized to make the purchase.

Hostesses for the March 28th meeting will be Etha Mae Wolford and Gerry Diltz.

Mystery sisters were revealed, gifts exchanged and new names for the coming year were drawn.

Out-Of-Season Doe Proves Expensive

NASHVILLE (AP) — Four Overton County residents, one of them a woman, were fined $50 and costs each and jailed for 10 days as a result of an out-of-season deer slaying.

Assistant law enforcement chief Paul Strunk of the Tennessee Game and Fish Commission said the four were charged with the illegal possession of a doe, and violation of the "gun and light" law.

Their 1966 automobile and an automatic rifle with a scope were confiscated. The violations occurred in the Big Bottom section of Jackson County.

Circleville Rotary Club Has Long, Proud History

The Circleville Rotary Club was founded during "The Roaring 20's" by a small group of local business and professional men who believed that the city needed a service club.

In 1921, a representative from the Chillicothe Rotary Club headed by furniture manufacturer Burton Posten and Dick Wolfe, Chillicothe postmaster, convinced Roundtowners that Rotary was the answer to their search for such a club.

On Feb. 22, 1922, charter number 1087, signed by Rotary president Crawford C. McCullough and Secretary Chesley R. Perry, was presented to this group of Circleville Rotarians by District Governor Robert Patterson of Dayton.

Local residents, 23 in number, who were charter members of the club are Clarence Barnhart, Canning Industry; Robert L. Brehmer, Ford Dealer; Wilson Cellar, Builders Supplies; C. C. Chappelle, Newspaper Publisher; Fred C. Clark, Funeral Director; ...

HARLEY B. Colwell, Men's Clothing; Roy Davis, Water Supply; Press Enderlin, Coal Dealer; Max Friedman, Ladies Apparel; Tom O. Gilliland, Lumber; Charles T. Gilmore, Electric Light Co;

John C. Goeller Jr., Broom Manufacturing; Karl J. Herrmann, Appliances; Harry D. Jackson, Physician; Paul A. Johnson, Office Supplies; Earl Klingensmith, Home Builder;

G. William McGinnis, Farm Supplies; Howard Orr, Canning Factory; Samuel G. Rader, Insurance; John Ryan, Druggist; Harry Stevenson, Home Furniture; Arthur Wilder, Ladies Dresses; Clark C. Will, Banker.

And six charter members remain living today. They are Robert L. Brehmer Sr., Tom O. Gilliland, Karl J. Herrman, Paul A. Johnson, Max Friedman and Wilson Cellar.

The Feb. 21 edition of the Circleville Daily Union-Herald described the inauguration meeting.

"Circleville has a full fledged Rotary Club."

"THIS much-wished-for result became a reality Monday evening at the Methodist Episcopal Church when Governor "Bob" Patterson handed to President Harry G. Stevenson the charter for the new organization.

"This was a very impressive ceremony and if the men comprising the club will always live according to the teachings of the visiting speakers, Circleville cannot help but be a better place to live.

"The club was launched under the most auspicious surroundings with two hundred visitors from Chillicothe, Lancaster, Washington C. H., Columbus, Logan and Dayton at a splendid chicken dinner served by the Ladies' Aid Society of the church. Two hundred and fourteen Rotarians enjoyed the big spread.

"The visiting delegations were escorted to the church by our own Circle City Band which generously donated its services in the spirit of helpfulness to promote a worthy cause.

"The dinner was thoroughly enjoyed by all and was liberally punctuated with Rotary songs by the different organizations, while the music discoursed by Mader's Saxophone orchestra was a feature of a most interesting and pleasurable program. This organization like the Circle City band, donated its services and both were very highly appreciated.

"The installation ceremonies were in charge of Bert Posten of Chillicothe, representative of Governor Patterson of Dayton. Harry Chapman of the Chillicothe club was the installing officer, Rotary Governor "Bob" Patterson, of Dayton, presented the charter to the new club, and Clarence Green of the Dayton club, presented the code of ethics. Each one of them made a splendid address and emphasized the mission of Rotary."

"FOLLOWING the installation of the Circleville Club, Ralph E. Westfall, the first president of the Columbus club, was introduced and gave a splendid talk.

"The residents of the various clubs were then introduced by representative Posten and they, in turn, presented members who spoke for their own organizations.

"Harry Stevenson, president of the baby club, presented C. C. Chappelle, for the local organization.

"Now that the Circleville Rotary Club has its charter, it is up to every member of the club to do everything in his power to further the good work of this International organization and make the Circleville club one to be proud of."

In 1936 membership in the organization had risen to 53 members. There were 66 members in 1956, 88 members in 1966 and today, the club's roster lists 101 members.

The first meetings of the Circleville Rotary were held at the Bogg's Hotel and continued there until 1933 when the property was purchased by the government, razed, and reconstructed as the local post office.

AFTER that, meetings were held for a short period of time on the second floor of a building at 214 S. Court St.

The next move was to the American Hotel, then the Elks Club and the St. Phillips Episcopal Parish House.

Now meetings are held at the L-K Restaurant on Route 23 South.

But Rotary is still a service club.

One of the early projects of the club dealt with the Ohio Society of Crippled Children which had been started by a Rotarian from Elyria. A Crippled Children's Clinic was held at the Home and Hospital on W. Ohio St., which was under the supervision of Dr. Judson Wilson of Columbus.

The Rotary Club has always been a participant of the Rotary Foundation Fellowship and International Student exchange which has contributed millions of dollars to further education throughout the world.

FOR the past 20 years, the Circleville Rotary Club has sent representatives from Circleville and Pickaway County high schools to the World Affairs Institute which is held annually in Cincinnati and sponsored by the Cincinnati Rotary Club.

Approximately 700 high school students have attended this convention and have had the opportunity to discuss world problems. For the past five years, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Walters have served as chaperones for the local delegation.

Prior to their service, Miss Mary Walters, a teacher at Circleville High School and a sister to Charlie served as chaperone.

One of the outstanding projects of the club has been its participation in the Bloodmobile program of the American Red Cross. For the past 12 years, the Rotary Club assumed the responsibility of recruiting donors for the program.

Thanks to their efforts, minimum quotas have always been reached allowing full participation for county blood requirements.

IN 1964, Rotary International adopted a "Matched Club" program in which each member club was matched with a foreign club.

The Circleville club was matched with the Rotary Club of Stade, Germany and in 1966, a delegation of Circleville Rotarians, headed by Ned Harden, organized a charter flight to Germany to meet with the Stade club.

Members who participated in the trip were Harden, J. Boyd Stout, Bob Smith, Karl Herrman, Russ Palm and Alden Bray.

Other than service, Rotary is a fellowship organization. And the Circleville Rotarians have done their part.

Several Inter-City meetings have been held in the city. On May 10, 1928, members from Greenfield, Lancaster, Logan and Washington C. H. assembled at the Methodist Church for a meeting.

ANOTHER such event was held Oct. 15, 1938 at the Memorial Hall with Chillicothe, Portsmouth, Lancaster, Logan, Washington C. H., Greenfield and London clubs participating.

One of the most important requirements of Rotary membership is attendance at meetings. Charter member Robert L. Brehmer Sr., assumed this obligation very seriously and has now completed 50 years of perfect attendance.

Another charter member, Karl Herrman, also has taken the requirement of attendance seriously and will complete his 35th year of perfect attendance in 1972.

Robert L. Brehmer Jr., has seen the benefits of perfect attendance from his father and will be completing his 25th year of perfect attendance this year.

tendence. He has never missed a meeting since this club was chartered and Rotary throughout the country salutes him for this outstanding accomplishment.

Ask any member of Circleville Rotary Club what is its outstanding achievement and they will comment on Bob's attendance record.

Another charter member, Karl Herrman, also has taken the requirement of attendance seriously and will complete his 35th year of perfect attendance in 1972.

Robert L. Brehmer Jr., has seen the benefits of perfect attendance from his father and will be completing his 25th year of perfect attendance this year.

FORT WORTH, Tex. (AP) — There is a critical shortage of honey in the world despite all the bustling of all the bees, says Edward Burleson of Waxahatchie.

Addressing the Texas Beekeepers Association, Burleson said the cost of honey almost doubled in 1971.

"We have a world shortage of honey because of weather and plant conditions," Burleson said.

not formally engaged the first time because I had a shotgun wedding.

Under the circumstances, would it be proper for me to announce my engagement with a picture in the paper just like all the other brides?

WONDERING
DEAR WONDERING: It is proper for a divorcee to announce her engagement and wedding plans, but the announcement should include the fact that you are MRS. SO AND SO, and the mother of the child by a previous marriage. To deliberately omit these facts would leave you open to criticism.

Dear Abby: By Abigail Van Buren

Dad Learns To Love His 'Special' Child

DEAR ABBY: I want to do something now that I have been wanting to do for seven months. I want to say "thank you" for something you did for me.

On May 6, 1971, our second son was born. But he was not like our first, healthy, "normal" son. He is Mongoloid.

With the help of family, friends and doctors, I prepared myself for the raising of our "special" child. But the acceptance came much harder for my proud husband. It's easier for a mother to love the child she has carried for nine months, but for the father, that love sometimes comes harder, and after many forced smiles and sleepless nights, my husband now admits that he was miserable. Needless to say, he knows now, but at first he wondered if he could ever "love" his second son as he should.

On May 11, your column concerning Mongoloid babies appeared. It could not have come out at a better time for us. THAT made the difference in my husband's life. After reading that column, he no longer had that "why-did-this-have-to-happen-to-us" attitude. And just knowing how other people have handled it can help a lot.

Our baby is eight months old now, and a happier child I've never seen. And I know a lot of his happiness comes from knowing that his mother and daddy and brother really love and accept him totally.

Dear, Dear Abby, if you did nothing else in 1971, you have helped one father find the love he always had for his "special" child. Thank you.

DOUG'S MOTHER
FORT WORTH, TEXAS
DEAR MOTHER: Your letter made this five feet-tall today. After this appears, I know I'll be deluged with requests to reprint that column, so tomorrow, with the kind indulgence of those readers who have already read it, I shall do so.

DEAR ABBY: This for the identical twin who said she did not enjoy being a twin, and didn't believe twins had any special "closeness" between them:

You are dead wrong! I've been a twin for 52 years, and although my twin and I are separated by thousands of miles, we still think and feel alike. When she had a back operation, my back actually ached. When I was laid up after an auto accident, she said she felt my pain.

She bought a fur coat in New York. I bought the identical fur coat in San Francisco! (Neither one knew the other was even considering a fur coat!)

She sent me an ash tray for an anniversary. I had just bought one for myself exactly like it.

It's almost weird the way we think and feel alike, but it's the truth. Please sign me . . .

GREAT TO BE A TWIN
DEAR GREAT: No identical twin would doubt you. At least, not this one.

DEAR ABBY: I shall be receiving my engagement diamond in a few weeks and I want very much to have my picture in the newspaper's society section announcing my engagement and wedding plans.

My problem: I am a divorcee with a 5-year-old child. I was

Past Rotary International President Is From Japan

President of Rotary International for the 1968-69 year, ending July 1, was Kiyoshi Togasaki of Japan.

Koyoshi Togasaki is president of Fuji Tours International in Tokyo, Japan. He is also an adviser and former chairman and president of the "Japan Times" in Tokyo.

Born in San Francisco, California, he was graduated from the University of California in Berkeley and has received honorary doctor of humane letters degrees from Cornell College in Mount Vernon, Iowa, U.S.A., and International Christian University in Tokyo, and an honorary doctor of laws degree from La Verne College in La Verne, California, U.S.A.

Mr. Togasaki was president of Rotary International for 1968-69. The world-wide service organization he led comprises more than 13,200 Rotary clubs with a membership of more than 632,000 business and professional executives in 143 countries.

He has been a member of the Rotary Club of Tokyo since 1949 and is past president of that club. He has served Rotary International as vice-president, director, Rotary Foundation trustee, district governor and as committee chairman and member, including chairmanship of the 1966 (Denver, Colorado) convention committee. In 1961, he served as chairman of the host club executive committee for the convention in Tokyo.

In Tokyo, Mr. Togasaki is honorary chairman of the board of trustees of International Christian University, vice-president of the America-Japan Society, a councillor of the Grew Foundation, a director of the Kiyosato Education and Experimental Project (K.E.E.P.), a trustee of St. Luke's Hospital and the Japan Bible Society, and a councillor of International House. He is a past director of the Japanese Newspaper Editors and Publishers Association and a former trustee of Gakushuin University in Tokyo. Mr. Togasaki has been decorated by the Japanese government with the Third Order of the Rising Sun.

Official Hughes Book Expected In Far Future

LOS ANGELES (AP) — There will be an authorized biography of Howard Hughes after all, but a spokesman for the billionaire advises against holding your breath waiting for it.

As investigations continued in New York and elsewhere into the purported autobiography of Hughes written by Clifford Irving, a Hughes Tool Co. spokesman disclosed Tuesday that Hughes' most trusted aides will help prepare an official biography.

"This doesn't mean the biography will be published tomorrow or the day after," said the spokesman, Dick Hannah. He said an author hasn't been chosen and gave no estimate of when the book would appear.

Hannah said the 66-year-old

Hughes sold the rights to his life story "and any commercial exploitation of his name or likeness" about seven years ago to Rosemont Enterprises, a Nevada corporation.

Kleindienst Finds Hearings Easy

WASHINGTON (AP) — Richard G. Kleindienst was supposed to put his head into the lion's mouth in his first confrontation with liberal senators examining his qualifications to be attorney general. The lion turned out to be more of a lamb.

The confirmation hearing on Kleindienst's nomination for attorney general was billed as an opportunity for Judiciary Committee Democrats to review the Justice Department record over the past three years, a period in which Kleindienst has been a key spokesman.

But Sens. Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and Phillip A. Hart, D-Mich., who did most of the interrogating in the opening round Tuesday, were not severely critical in their remarks.

Collector Demand Ups Stamp Prices

By GRAHAM HEATHCOTE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — If you think the outlook for money is uncertain you could hedge on stamps. There are millions of them about so you'll need advice. Some of the best is for free in London, center of the world market.

The old stamps of "strong" countries popular with collectors, like Britain, France, Germany, Switzerland and the United States, have been steadily rising in price for a long time. In the last five or six years, some increases have been spectacular.

British dealers say there now is a boom in Japanese stamps, reflecting Japan's growing economic strength and prosperity. With more leisure and money more Japanese are collecting stamps and the first that they go for are their own.

So Japanese stamps are being bought intensively in the world market at prices 10, 20 and 40 times higher than their original catalog listings.

British stamps have never been so much in demand as they are now. Intensive publicity accompanied a Post Office decision in the mid-1960s to issue more commemoratives. The new designs and bright colors attracted people who had never bought a stamp except to stick on a letter. The Post Office made a lot of money. Stamp collecting spread. And dealers' prices for old stamps went up as demand for them also increased.

Britain's issue of the first adhesive stamp in 1840, combined with the nation's 19th century world trade promoted the establishment of the stamp market in London.

John Richardson, 44, who began dealing when he was a schoolboy and who now is a partner in London Stamp Exchange, explains:

"London is the center of the stamp trade," he says, "because the growth and explosion of Victorian England is attributable to postage stamps. Trade grew because Britain produced the first stamp and set up efficient postal services in the colonies. The service in India was fantastically efficient. The countries that kept pace were those which were developing — Germany, France and the United States.

"Luckily for us, the Victorians never threw anything away. They had no microfilm. They kept documents, love letters, envelopes — the lot. So Britain is a treasure house of stamps and postal history."

Otto Hornung, author of a stamp encyclopedia and secretary of the Philatelic Traders' Society in London, says: "In Victorian times, the pound was the first world currency. There was a lot of it, and it was sound. So the first great stamp collections were formed and sold in London, and London's dealers were in at the start."

Stamps are not particularly cheap, except in the children's packets sold in candy shops and chain stores. Yet there seem to be endless quantities.

Within a quarter-mile of Charing Cross there are more than 50 dealers whose windows, cupboards, desks, shelves and even cellars are bulging, burgeoning and bursting with stamps.

"There are millions of stamps," says Hornung. "More than 150,000 different stamps have been issued in the world since the first in 1840. Last year, there were 5,000 new issues and any one could number 50,000 or 50 million copies.

STAMP MARKET — London is the center of the world stamp market and here people jam the post office at Trafalgar Square to buy stamps. The old stamps of countries popular with collectors — such as Britain and the United States — have been steadily rising in price, and dealers say there currently is great demand for Japanese stamps.

A stamp is hardly ever priced below its face value. On top of that is added the supplier's commission, then the dealer's cut — about 10 to 12½ per cent. Collectors can reckon on paying prices starting at 25 per cent above face value for new issues. "There are about 10,000 dealers in Britain, many of them part-timers dealing off the kitchen table," says John Richardson.

The London dealers concentrate at Charing Cross, around the Strand. An old song was "Let's all go down the Strand," and in 1891 Stanley Gibbons Ltd. did so. The firm has been there ever since, and its reputation as the world's best-known stamp dealer drew others to the area.

Kenneth Chapman who edits the weekly "Stamp Collecting" says:

"Most stamp dealing is a hard slog and very risky unless you know what you're doing. The way to make money is to specialize. If you put all your money and experience into one field, have good stocks of one country or of one subject, like postal history, then the buyers have to go to you.

"Dealers must not spread their capital too widely, they cannot cover the stamps of the whole world."

It needs no expert to point out that in an age of collecting mania stamps are portable, easier to carry about — especially across frontiers — than books, silver, coins, glass or Louis XV commodes. A half-dozen classics — stamp issued before 1900 — can be carried in an envelope and be worth a fortune.

Not So Primitive

NEW YORK (AP) — Dr. James C. King, associated professor of microbiology at New York University's Medical School, points out in his book, "The Biology of Race," that no living population is more primitive than another.

For example, he believes the hippie teenager living in a commune is not as primitive as his parents believe. The hippie is misunderstood by his parents, Dr. King says.

A Half-Million Gardeners Are Happy Tilling Small Plots In West Germany

By FRANK CREPEAU
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Wilhelm Boises straightened up from his strawberry bed, brushed the rich black earth from his hands and looked around with pride and contentment at his small garden patch.

"It does a man good to do something like this," said Boises, a bank clerk by profession but by avocation one of West Germany's half-million avid "small gardeners."

Boises is master of a slice of land 20 paces long and 10 wide that he leases from the city and has made into a modest paradise — a leafy, rose-dotted oasis amid the roar of traffic and the stresses and strains of modern city life.

There are about 14,000 like him in Frankfurt, their gardens gathered in colonies of 50 to 200 on city-owned land. The colonies are scattered over the city, providing vital greenery, a visual delight and an important leisure activity for some of the city's apartment dwellers.

The pattern is repeated all over West Germany and foreign travelers can see the plots, each with a tiny garden house, when approaching any West German city by autobahn or train.

Homeowners the world over have garden plots if they care to, but the typical "small gardener" in West Germany lives in an apartment and has only limited possibilities to plunge his hands into the soil or commune with nature.

"I used to rent a piece of land about 35 miles from the city," Boises said, "but traffic conditions have become so catastrophic that I have no interest in driving my car anymore."

Now, accompanied by his dachshund "Axel", Boises can walk from his apartment to his garden in five minutes every morning before work to look at his roses. In the evenings and on weekends his wife joins him for a few hours of puttingter about or just relaxing and talking with neighboring gardeners.

As an institution, such gardens exist in several European countries. They are almost unknown in the United States, however, except for those who remember the "Victory Gardens" of World War II or for the few plots that still exist in Boston's Fenway Park.

Some West Germans look down on the small gardeners, referring to them as "obstructed home owners." Skyrocketing land and building prices have pushed the price of houses beyond the means of many of West Germany's middle class.

For them, the garden is a backyard where they can play with their children on a tiny plot of grass, relax in swimming trunks on a lounge chair or grill bratwurst and drink a few beers with friends in the evening.

Hermann Kissel and his wife often entertain in the sheltered porch of their garden house, and he has built an American-style grill out of bricks.

Kissel is a statistician with the West German central bank. For him the garden is a place "where I can put on some old shoes, an old shirt and relax and that's something when you have to sit around in a suit and necktie all day."

The gardens are also called "Schreber gardens" after Daniel Gottlob Moritz Schreber, a Leipzig educator of the mid-1800s. He argued such state-supported garden plots were needed during the industrial age so that assembly line workers who left the land wouldn't lose their primeval feeling for nature. The gardens are now protected by federal law which says if the city needs the land it must make substitute land available to the displaced gardener and pay an indemnity for his garden house, trees and plants.

After two disastrous wars, the gardens were used for raising food, but West Germany's increasing prosperity has changed that. "Every year you see fewer vegetables and more flowers and grass," said Boises.

"Some people still want to eat a piece of fruit or a tomato they have grown with their own hands," said Kissel, "but when you can buy a can of beans for 20 cents it really doesn't pay to raise them."

Having a garden can be almost as expensive or as cheap as the individual gardener desires. He must pay the city $16 a year for the lease and buy his tools, flowers, seeds, fertilizer and pay for water.

Some get by for as little as $55 a year and others invest up to $1,000 a year when they are building a garden house, buying trees or planning elaborate flower displays.

Rotarians Have 4 Way Test For Business Relationships

"Is it the truth? ... Is it fair to all concerned?" ... "Will it build good will and better friendship?" ... Will it be beneficial to all concerned?"

This is the "Four Way Test" of business relationships adopted by Rotary Clubs across the nation and around the world.

It was authored in 1932 during the depression by a Chicagoan named Herbert J. Taylor who was assigned by creditors to save a Chicago company from bankruptcy. He found that the company's debts were $400,000 more than its assets. And the company manufactured a good product. But so did its competitors.

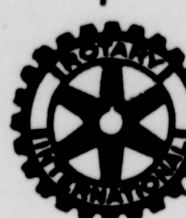

Taylor came up with a plan to develop something within the company's organization that its competitors had not developed — character, dependability, service and mindedness. He then authored the "Four Way Test."

THE test proved successful. Applying the four questions to all its plans, policies and advertising, the company gradually moved out of the red. Today it is worth more than 2 million dollars and along with its growth has come happier relationships between company, customers, suppliers, competitors, and employees, based on mutual trust and confidence.

Since its adoption as an official "Four Way Test" of the Rotary Clubs, it has been translated in a dozen different languages and is used in offices, factories, schools and legislatures as an effective device for business and personal conduct.

About 85 per cent of New Brunswick's 28,345 square miles of land area are forested.

NOTICE OF APPOINTMENT

NO. 24500
Estate of Fannie O. Conrad,
Deceased

Notice is hereby given that Patsy S. Hart whose Post Office address is Route 4, Circleville, Ohio 43113 has been duly appointed Administratrix de bonis non with will annexed of the Estate of Fannie O. Conrad late of Pickaway County, Ohio, deceased.

Dated this 3rd day of February 1972.

Guy G. Cline, Judge Common Pleas Court Probate Division Pickaway County, Ohio

Feb. 17, 24, Mar. 2

Hartke, who has declared himself a candidate for President this year, defeated Roudebush, then Republican member of the House, by a plurality of 4,383 votes. The election was the closest in Indiana history.

Two weeks later Roudebush petitioned an Indiana state court for a recount in some 464 precincts scattered through 11 counties.

Hartke then moved to block the recount, was turned down in state court but won an injunction in a federal district court. The Supreme Court reversed, with Justices William O. Douglas and William J. Brennan Jr. dissenting with a view that the Senate has "exclusive jurisdiction" over the dispute.

Stewart noted that two constitutional provisions were in apparent collision. One is the power of the Senate to judge the qualification of its members; the other, the power of the states to prescribe the times, places and manner of holding elections.

The recount, he said, does not interfere with the Senate's function since the Senate can still make an independent evaluation of the election following the recount.

Only police and soldiers are permitted to carry guns in Yemen.

Rotary Founded By Chicago Man

Sixty-seven years ago in Chicago a man had a conviction that friendship and business could be welded together to the advantage of both.

He vocalized his conviction to three other young men who claimed allegiance and the first Rotary Club meeting was held by these four in one of their offices.

They named it Rotary because they planned to rotate the meeting place between each of their business offices.

The man with the original idea was Paul Harris, then a tall, intense lawyer 36 years of age. His clients, he found, were good business friends, but that was where the relationship ended. No personal contact.

His three friends, the first Rotary members were Sylvester Schiele, a Chicago coal dealer, Gustavus Loehr, a mining engineer and Hiram Shorey, a merchant tailor. On the night of Feb. 23, 1905, they met in Loehr's office building on Chicago's loop.

They were content for a while, but when Harris became president of this club three years later he hit upon a plan to expand his organization to other cities.

The second Rotary Club was inaugurated in San Francisco in 1910, other cities sponsored the organization, and their were 16 clubs and a national organization.

Further expansion saw clubs formed in Canada and Great Britain in 1912 and their organization name changed to "The International Association of Rotary Clubs."

In 1922, the name was shortened to "Rotary International."

Harris was both first president of the national and international Rotary associations. He died in Jan., 1947.

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWERY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — High point of the television week for adult lovers of macabre, strange and weird stories has to be Wednesday's "Night Gallery" on NBC.

In earlier days, Alfred Hitchcock's half-hour series often spun playful, mischievous horror tales: Rod Serling's contemporary approach is sober and serious, often heightening the effect. It certainly did that in the pair of eerie presentations on the hour this week.

First comes a spooky story set in a primitive, famine-beset section of the British Isles, full of damp mists and strange accents. A starving man agreed, on promise of food and three gold pieces, to eat from the chest of a corpse awaiting burial. It was based on a custom called "sin-eating"—the dead man's sins were transferred with the food to another person.

This jolly segment was followed by one about robots in human form programmed to perform menial functions. One vicious couple attempted to torture their pretty robot housemaid, resulting in a revolt of the machine. The revenge was a snapper ending with a Hitchcock twist.

The stories are usually beautifully cast with talented performers—Geraldine Page, Cloris Leachman and Broderick Crawford were among the actors Wednesday night, but there is a strange kind of violence about the series.

Change is in the wind at both NBC and ABC:

James Stewart and "The Jimmy Stewart Show" will not return after this season. The situation comedy, a big disappointment to viewers as well as the star, never has done well.

Johnny Carson's desire to move "The Tonight Show" to Hollywood has been fulfilled. NBC has given the green light to the shift of the show's base to the Burbank studios starting May 1. All of Carson's key people, including Ed McMahon, will move with him.

This should be a break for ABC's "Dick Cavett Show" as far as booking nonshow-business guests is concerned.

Carson's departure means another loss to New York as a TV entertainment production center. Just about all that is left in the East now is a handful of daytime game shows and a number of soap operas.

Tom Kennedy of the syndicated daytime game show, "It's Your Bet," seen on NBC's owned and operated stations as well as elsewhere, will quit the show. He will be replaced March 6 by Lyle Waggoner, the body beautiful on "The Carol Burnett Show."

Tom will jump into the host's spot on ABC's new game show, "Split Second." It starts March 20, replacing reruns of Marlo Thomas' "That Girl."

Convicts Make Machine Tools

By RODNEY PINDER

Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — Britain is reorganizing its captive labor — the 20,000 prisoners in its prisons.

Convicts already make many things in their barred workshops, from mailbags, traditional, to machine tools, modern. Now their output is to be expanded.

The Home Office, busily coordinating this expansion under a department called the Directorate of Industries and Supplies (DIS) predicts a production valued at $37.5 million a year within four years.

The trademark for prison ware is likely to be a phoenix — the legendary bird consumed by fire which rose from its own ashes in youthful freshness as a symbol of immortality.

The mark, the Home Office said, "will be the guarantee of good quality and prompt delivery."

The prison service is one sector of British industry not bedeviled by strikes or other industrial disputes.

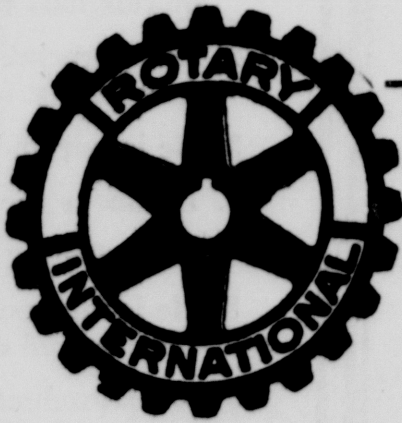

"We occasionally have some workers downing tools, but this problem is not serious," said a Home Office spokesman. "But we have disadvantages. We cannot pick our own labor and most of our workers are unskilled."

More than half Britain's prison population of 39,500 will work under the new Home Office scheme.

Prisoners on remand, awaiting trial, are not obliged to work. And many are occupied by domestic duties in jail.

Prisoners work an average 28 hours a week, and sometimes 40 hours in modern institutions such as Coldingly in Surrey, which has a commercial laundry. They earn an average of $125 a week.

Village Of Poles Produces Most Of The Pork In Turkey

POLONEZKOY, Turkey (AP) — It is forbidden in the Moslem holy book for Moslems to eat pork. Yet pork is available in this 99 per cent Moslem nation. Most of it comes from pigs raised here by Polish Turks. Polonezkoy (Polish Village) is a tiny island of Christianity in a Moslem sea. Its 200 inhabitants speak Polish among themselves, worship in a Catholic Church, and are buried in a hilltop cemetery whose eight-foot-high wooden cross dominates the village. They are refugees from Russian invasions of Poland in the middle of the 19th century. Polonezkoy was founded in 1833. The largest influx of Poles came in the Crimean War period 1854-56. The village, in rolling farm country about 10 miles east of the Bosphorus Strait and Istanbul and 20 miles south of the Black Sea, benefits from tourism. The attraction is not beaches, ruins or sports but food. Of the 35 families in town, 25 of them operate their homes as pensions where $5 a day gets one rural calm, a clean bedroom and three stuffings of fresh farm products, preserves, cured ham, chicken, macaroni and cheese, pastries and Turkish specialties. But Polonezkoy is shrinking and its future is in doubt. Young people are leaving its simple life built around pig-raising and dairy-farming to go abroad or to large Turkish cities. The village headman, Leslav Riji is hopeful. He says many of the young villagers, now in Australia, Europe and America, will return. But much of Riji's family has emigrated to Los Angeles and Australia. Mrs. Marysia Wilosheva, a blue-eyed blonde of 60 said: "The young leave, the men die and only the old women are left. How many widows there are."

Williamsport Church Plans Convention

A Missionary Convention will be held Feb. 27 through March 1 at the Williamsport Church of Christ in Christian Union. Eva Donohue will speak Sunday morning. Daryl Brown on Sunday evening. Compromise Foreign Aid Measure Eyed WASHINGTON (AP) — House-Senate conferees split over international pooling of foreign aid have put out a $3.2-billion U.S. aid bill compromising House and Senate money bills roughly halfway. The bill restores $86 million to the United Nations' foreign aid program—from which the House had cut America's entire $100-million 1972 share—and splits the difference between the Senate's international bank allocation and the House bill, which included only a small amount.

Smog And Traffic Jams A Problem In Buenos Aires

By ROBERT D. OHMAN
Associated Press Writer
BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Buenos Aires, once a sleepy settlement on the Spaniards' gold route to Peru, has enough smoke, smog and congestion today to rival other major capitals. The glut of autos may be a source of pride to the men who started Argentina's automobile industry some 17 years ago, but it is something less to the pedestrian, his eyes smarting from the fumes, trying to weave his way across an auto-clogged street.

The problem comes into smoggy focus in the federal district of Buenos Aires — the national capital with 3.8 million inhabitants and 460,982 registered vehicles, including 8,000 buses and 25,000 cabs.

Figures for both people and autos more than double with the inclusion of surrounding bedroom neighborhoods and industrial suburbs.

Buenos Aires has drawn its culture along with its driving habits from Europe, and the Roman influence appears to prevail.

Broad avenues, like Rome's ancient Appian Way, funnel streams of autos, trucks and buses into the 70-block heart of the capital with its narrow streets and broken sidewalks that are two shoulders wide. At 6 p.m. on a weekday when everyone is in a hurry to get home, horns blare and tempers flare as taxis and buses inch their way into jammed intersections to force a crossing.

Many busy crossings are without traffic lights or signs and the challenge is to bluff out the other driver. The one who hits his brakes at the last moment loses.

Signal lights aren't taken seriously. One tourist, shaken after a speedy ride, said his taxi driver apparently felt "if the light wasn't green it wasn't working."

Most of the sidewalks, which are made of tile panels on a thin base, are either under repair or repairs are needed.

A New Yorker, here for a recent boxing match, was brushed twice by taxis as he stepped from the sidewalk to avoid piles of broken tiles. "I'll never live to see the fight," he complained the night before.

Police remain aloof from the lowly foot-people. They direct vehicular traffic but it's up to the pedestrian to decide when to venture forth. Frequently its safer to jay-walk than to cross at an intersection.

Argentines, both drivers and walkers, are generally stoical. A near miss, a sudden stop or a frightened dash is dismissed with a shrug of the shoulder or a Latin sigh.

But if Buenos Aires has problems, it also has heart.

This summer it opened up Florida Street, which runs through the middle of the city center, as a pedestrian mall. This created another small problem. It's so popular it's congested.

Bloc Voting Bill To Be Considered

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Secretary of State Ted Brown doesn't expect any "substantial opposition" in the General Assembly to one-shot legislation requiring bloc voting for convention delegate candidates in the May 2 primary.

"Enactment would mean a saving of $1.5 million to $2 million to the taxpayers of Ohio," Brown said.

"As far as this bill is concerned, it is a matter of time now," Brown said. "We would have to have it by the first few days of March on an emergency basis."

Claim Cemeteries Fleecing Veterans

WASHINGTON (AP) — Veterans are being fleeced by unscrupulous private cemeteries which offer free graves as a come-on to buying costly burial packages, a Senate committee was told in a report released today.

The veteran who signs the agreement for a "free" burial plot usually pays jacked-up prices for other items and services, and often he is persuaded to buy expensive plots for his family, the report said.

Line Of Rusty Railroad Cars Stirs Homeowners In Iowa

ANKENY, Iowa (AP) — A line of railroad freight cars, broken only by an occasional rail crossing, snakes silently through this flat farming area just north of Des Moines.

The cars sidetracked by age or damage, are at the center of a year-old controversy between the Chicago and North Western Railroad and residents of Polk County.

The railroad says it is storing the cars on an abandoned six-mile stretch of the Fort Dodge-Des Moines line until they can be repaired or sold for scrap.

But the residents say the cars are an eyesore and provide a haven for beer-drinking teenagers.

"We know it's not beautification of the countryside," says G.R. Hanson, the railroad's division manager, "but it was the only place we could find to store them."

His explanation satisfies few homeowners whose views now include the rusty and eroding boxcars.

The county board of supervisors has tried to force removal of the boxcars, citing a zoning regulation which allows railroad yards only in heavy industrial districts.

Attorneys for the railroad will not say if and when the cars will be moved, adding that storing the cars on the tracks does not violate the ordinance.

County attorneys also argue that the freight cars obstruct motorists' vision at crossings.

The railroad, however, has complied by moving cars at certain crossings whenever complaints are registered.

Shuffling the cars a few feet has not satisfied county officials, who say they will keep up their outcry until the rail cars are finally gone.

Probe Fatal House Fire; 6 Injured

WASHINGTON COURT HOUSE, Ohio (AP)—State arson officials continued an investigation today into the cause of a boarding house fire that killed a 70-year-old guest.

Acting Fire Chief Maynard Denen said a preliminary investigation indicated the fire Wednesday started in the first-floor bedroom of Harold Allen of Jeffersonville, who died in the blaze.

Firemen rescued a second boarder, Margaret Masters, 85, by breaking a second-floor window and carrying her down a ladder.

The building owners, Mr. and Mrs. Ray Creamer, and their daughter, Mary Buck, escaped the flames. Officials said the daughter tried unsuccessfully to rescue Allen.

Mrs. Creamer was admitted to Fayette Memorial Hospital after suffering chest pains. She was listed in fair condition.

Mrs. Buck and Creamer were treated and released, as were firemen John Rockhold and James Sever, both for smoke inhalation.

Rotary Uses 10 Steps For Good Citizen

Though there are many marks of a good citizen, none stand up as well as those associated with Rotary Clubs around the world.

A good citizen must be well informed on local and world affairs.

He is courteous, unselfish, friendly, and is a good neighbor to all.

He is sincere, dependable, and takes an active part in some form of religious affiliation.

He appreciates what others have done for him and accepts responsibility for the future betterment of his community and world.

He is both fair and just in his relations to others.

He obeys the laws of his community and nation.

He votes regularly and intelligently at election time.

He is interested in the freedom and welfare of all people.

He is productive and tries to render a worthwhile service to his fellow man.

In setting a good example for youth in his community, he views them as associates rather than children.

Pickets Face Fine In Mayors Court

CINCINNATI (AP) — A field representative of the Ohio Association of Public School Employees and three striking bus drivers will face a maximum fine of $50 each when they appear in Sharonville Mayors Court March 13 for disobeying police orders to shut down a picket line.

Kenneth Murch, of Chillicothe and the drivers were charged with failure to obey a policeman's order. Officers had ordered them to stop picketing along a road in front of Princeton Junior High School.

Crime Funds Approved By Gilligan

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Gov. John Gilligan has announced approval of these federal grants in Ohio under the Omnibus Crime Control Act:

—$31,740 to the Athens Police Department for the training on narcotics of 250 policemen from 13 southeastern Ohio counties.

—$7,500 to Summit County for a study by the Akron Bar Association of bail bonding practices.

—$7,240 to Ironton for purchase of communications equipment for the police department.

—$5,280 to Xenia for a staff study of police department operations.

—$4,922 to Hardin County for an architectural study of a jail and detention center for the sheriff's department.

—$2,680 to the Ohio Supreme Court to help pay the costs of sending 20 appellate judges to a conference in Baton Rouge, La., dealing with standards of criminal justice.

—$1,987 to Jackson for the purchase of equipment for the police department.

—$1,228 to Tipp City for the purchase of video tape equipment for the police department.

The motto of Rotary is "He profits most who serves best". Obviously, the word "profit" as used in the motto, does not refer to profit in the popular sense, meaning pecuniary gain, but rather to that gain in character, happiness and satisfaction which one who serves experiences as he develops through service into a better, broader and more useful member of society — a profit incomparably finer than financial gain.

NCR Shows Earnings Dip

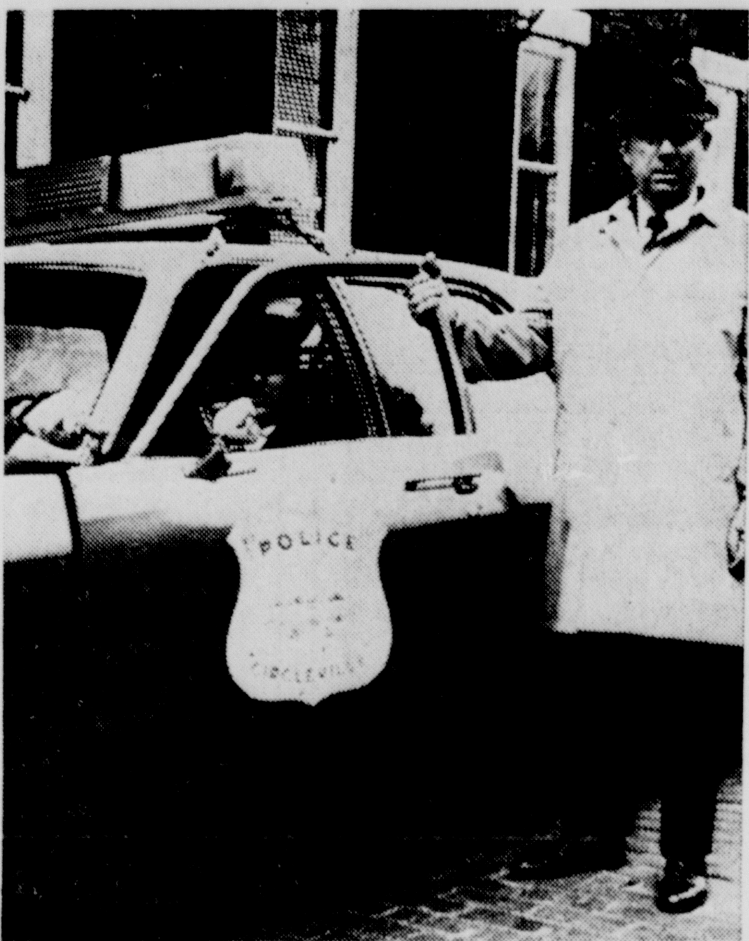

NEW YORK (AP) — A 16-week strike at the National Cash Register Co. plant in Dayton, Ohio, cut an estimated $10 million from the company's 1971 earnings, directors reported Wednesday.

The business machine producer said strike losses plus year-end write-offs reduced its 1971 profit to $1.4 million, down from $30.2 million in 1970.

Worldwide revenues were up slightly in 1971 to $1.5 billion from $1.4 billion. Earnings per share declined from $1.37 in 1970 to four cents last year.

Directors reduced the quarterly dividend from 18 to 10 cents.

The company reported year-end write-offs of $17 million after taxes in 1971. The write-offs, it said, involved parts inventories for some older products and costs related to improvement of another product.

NEW CRUISER — The Circleville Police Department received delivery of their new cruiser, Wednesday. Inspecting the 1972 model Dodge are Chief Bob Temple (right) and Sgt. Bill Pontious, inside the car. The cruiser will give the police force two patrol cars with which to operate.

Sneek-A-Peek

By Pickaway County Library Staff

Something for boys and girls of every age is listed in today's column. If you have a large family, you can find a new title for everyone from the baby on up.

Who would even think a shrew could be made to appear adorable? John Goodall, that's who. In "Shrewbetta's Birthday" he tells, in a series of narrative pictures, the story of a memorable day. Even the smallest child will delight in the birthday feast, complete with cake and candle.

It's very important to have a best friend when you're in kindergarten. Miriam Cohen understands this, and portrays the adjustment to school realistically in "Best Friends." Lillian Hoban's pictures are, as always, exactly right for the slight story.

Cheli Duran Ryan and Arnold Lobel have combined their talents to produce "Hildilid's Night." With tongue in cheek, they tell of poor old Hildilid, who spent all night trying to scare the dark away. By dawn, she was tired, and so had to sleep while the sun shone!

"Hello, Come In" is a clever controlled-vocabulary book for only readers. It was written by Ida DeLage and illustrated by John Mardon in what might be called "controlled-line drawings."

Ingeniously, Betty Miles has written a book of short, short stories for beginning readers. Each is just a page long, and the print is exceptionally large. No child will be discouraged "Just Think." It's format is designed to ensure successful reading. It was illustrated by Pat Grant Porter.

"Olaf's Sword" is one of the long ago children's books. It is an adventure story about Olaf, grandson of Eric the Red, who sailed with the Vikings to establish a colony on Vineland.

Little junior fiction has been written about the years following 1000 A.D., and this book has fresh appeal.

Zamini was a small brown boy. He was glad when he grew old enough to go to the market with his father. In a slight but sensitive story by Muriel L. Feelings, village life and the gentle, courteous people of Kenya are made vivid. Tom Feelings, husband of the author, drew the lovely soft pictures for "Zamini Goes To Market."

Another tale of King Arthur's court has been re-told by Barbara Schiller. "Eric and Enid" is a story to delight all who love brave knights and lovely ladies and duels and happy endings. Without a doubt, the book is greatly enhanced by its haunting illustrations. Ati Forberg, well-known illustrator, has chosen burnt-sienna as the only tone to dramatize her stunning pictures. They alone are worth careful study of this unusually fine juvenile.

In the tradition of Langston Hughes, "Black Out Loud" presents an anthology by modern Black Americans. Proud, protesting, loving, hating, joyful, and angry, they bare their thoughts in poetry. Arnold Adoff, editor, has chosen a balanced collection although space limited his selection. He has appended a biographical section which gives recognition to the poets represented. Alvin Hollingsworth did the startling black and white sketches which introduce six separated groupings of the poems.

Quick Busing Bill Action Blocked; Debate Continues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Parliamentary scrambling has blocked the quick action hoped for by sponsors of a compromise restricting busing of school children to achieve integration.

Southern Democrats and some Republicans favoring stronger legislation against busing kept the Senate from voting Wednesday on the compromise pushed by Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and Republican Leader Hugh Scott.

The Senate has agreed to end the debate next Wednesday.

The antibusing provisions are being offered as amendments to a combined $23-billion higher-education and $1.5-billion school-desegregation measure.

Mansfield and Scott offered their plan in the hope that it would rally a majority of the Senate and perhaps defuse some of the controversy over busing.

It would permit continuation of some busing to carry out school-desegregation plans, especially where these are ordered to end state-imposed racial segregation.

Liberals are expected to support the proposal to head off more-restrictive riders.

The Scott-Mansfield amendment would:

—Bar use of federal funds to carry out a racial-desegregation plan except on the written request of local school officials.

—Prohibit courts or federal officials from ordering local officials to make such a request.

—Bar use of federal funds for busing "when the time or distance of travel is so great as to risk the health" of the children or significantly impinge on the educational process."

—Prohibit federal officials from inducing local school officials to use state or local funds

Health Nurse Lists Activities

Pickaway County Health Nurse Helen Pickens visited McDowell, Pickaway, Salter Creek and Monroe Schools in February for examinations.

Three children were referred to the Children's Hospital Medical Clinic.

Three cases of venereal disease were reported. One was cleared.

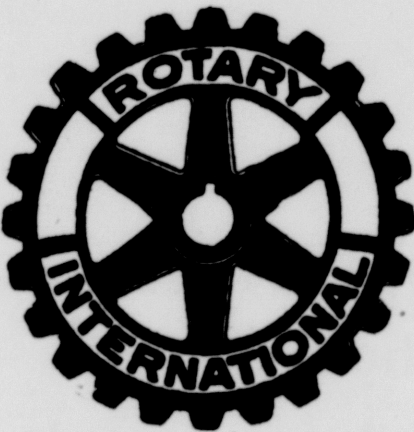

The Health Department provided some clothing and glasses, given by the Circleville Lion's Club, for families suffering house-destroying fires.

Mrs. Pickens also attended the Social Services Club luncheon.

2 Storms Rake East; Rain, Snow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Two separate storm centers caught the Northeast in a piners movement today, scattering snow, ice and rain from the Great Lakes to the Carolinas.

Sandwiched between the snow from the Great Lakes storm and the rain from the North Carolina disturbance was a band of freezing rain stretching from Lake Ontario across western New York and into Pennsylvania.

Heavy-snow warnings were issued for northern Maine, 6 or more inches was expected, and travel warnings were posted for the rest of New England, eastern New York, Pennsylvania and Virginia.

Cold air pushing into the northern Great Plains and upper Mississippi Valley, triggered showers and thunderstorms across the southern Midwest.

Rain also fell along the Pacific Coast from central California to Washington.

Fair weather prevailed elsewhere in the nation.

Temperatures before dawn ranged from 10 below zero at Loring Air Force Base, Limestone, Maine, to 68 at Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Peace Talks Set Thursday

PARIS (AP) — The United States and South Vietnam agreed Wednesday to a Communist proposal to hold a session of the Vietnam peace talks on Thursday.

Last week's session was called off by the United States in a protest of an antiwar assembly held in nearby Versailles Feb. 11-13. The United States contended that the assembly affected the neutral atmosphere in which the Vietnam conference is to be held.

South Vietnamese officials confirmed a report that Dr. Tran Van Do, a former foreign minister, had met here secretly Dec. 19 with Xuan Thuy, head of the North Vietnamese delegation to the Paris talks.

An official said the Saigon government was aware of the meeting but would give no further details. As far as is known it was the first such contact.

One unconfirmed report said Do had presented a peace plan, including freeing of military and political prisoners and a pledge for neutrality of South Vietnam.

More than 70,000 children under age five are involved each year in accidental poisonings, reports the Council on Family Health.

Jumbo Jet Hostages Free; Hijackers Release Plane

FRANKFURT, Germany (AP) — Young Joe Kennedy and the other passengers on the hijacked German airliner headed for their homes today. The Arab hijackers released the jumbo jet and the 14 crew members they had been holding hostage for 40 hours at the airport in Aden, South Yemen.

Kennedy, the eldest son of the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, flew to Frankfurt with the other male passengers on a special Lufthansa 707. Women and children who were freed hours before the men, arrived on an earlier flight.

None of the passengers was able to shed any light on the motives of the five hijackers, who said they were members of a Palestine liberation group in the Gaza Strip. Lufthansa and West German officials refused to disclose what the hijackers demanded for the hostages' freedom or if any ransom was paid.

Yemeni authorities said the five hijackers had been detained for questioning.

Young Joe said one of the hijackers struck him on the shoulder with a pistol because he was slow in raising his hands. "I just didn't raise my hands," 19-year-old Joseph P.

Kennedy III told a news conference. Otherwise, he added, he was "treated like anyone else." Asked if he thought of resisting, Kennedy said, "I certainly did not."

Another passenger, Thomas Peters, 52, of Rio de Janeiro, said the situation of the hostages was "unendurable. We spent up to three hours with our hands over our heads."

But he added that the hijackers treated the women and children passengers very well.

The plane, with 171 passengers and 16 crew members aboard, was commandeered early Tuesday about an hour after it left New Delhi on a flight to Athens that originated in Tokyo. Kennedy was going home after a motorbike trip in India. The Arabs boarded in New Delhi.

The 118 male passengers were held captive in the jumbo jet's aft section throughout a sweltering day on the runway of Aden airport. They were given meals and soft drinks by the hijackers, who had placed explosive charges at the doors of the aircraft.

MARION, Ohio (AP) — Four inmates of the Marion Correctional Institution escaped Wednesday night, apparently by climbing through a classroom window.

Guards said the escape took place sometime between 7:30 and 9 p.m.

The escapees were identified as Howard Litten, 36, of Toledo, serving a 1-15-year term for burglary; James Patterson, 39, of Lima, serving a 1-15-year term for burglary; Stephen Mertes, 29 of Cleveland, serving an 11-45-year term for armed robbery and Lawrence Lamont, 27, of Toledo, serving a 1-20-year term for forgery.

Advance In Heart Surgery Bared By Cleveland Medic

CLEVELAND, Ohio (AP) — A Cleveland surgeon says it is possible to implant blood vessels into the heart while it is still beating.

Dr. Jay Ankeney, University Hospitals surgeon, said Wednesday this eliminates the need for a heart-lung machine, reducing the operating time; offers minimal risk to the patient and is followed by a shorter recovery period.

Dr. Ankeney says he is able to do a single graft in 75 minutes and a double graft in 90 minutes. Similar operations by surgeons working with a heart-lung machine and a non-beating heart may take four to six hours.

The new procedure is used when one or two of the coronary arteries are blocked, to be replaced with a vein taken from the leg. The heart's blood supply would be fatally impaired without such surgery.

The original operation, developed a few years ago by Drs. Donald Effler and Rene Favaro at Cleveland Clinic, is now performed about 20,000 times a year in the United States.

"Although the heart-lung machine is effective in maintaining circulation for long periods, it can have harmful effects, such as adverse changes in the central nervous system," Dr. Ankeney said.

He added that the primary advantage of the simplified surgery is that it is safer for the patient.

The risk of death with a heart-lung machine might be anywhere from 4 to 12 per cent, but speakers at the American Heart Association recently cited even higher failure rates.

Another benefit, Dr. Ankeney said, is that only one to three pints of blood are used, which is far less than needed with a heart-lung machine.

"It is much less disturbing to the patient over-all," he added. "He is up and around soon after the operation and can usually go home within a week."

With the standard coronary artery graft, the patient is in the hospital from 10 to 14 days.

Rep. Dowdy Plans Appeal Of Sentence

BALTIMORE (AP) — Rep. John V. Dowdy, sentenced to 18 months in prison and fined $25,000, plans a prompt appeal to his bribery conspiracy conviction.

Sentence on the Texas Democrat was passed Wednesday by U.S. District Judge Roszel C. Thomsen.

Dowdy is scheduled to begin the prison term March 6. He will remain free on personal recognizance pending his appeal.

As the sentencing proceedings ended, Dowdy's wife Johnnie, who says she will seek her husband's House seat when he retires at the end of his current term, turned to a newsman and said:

"Honey, you tell everybody in the 2nd District to vote for me."

Dowdy's lawyer, Leon H. Pierson, said an appeal of the congressman's conviction will be submitted within a week before the 4th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals in Richmond, Va.

Dowdy, 60, was found guilty Dec. 30 on all eight counts of a $25,000 conspiracy scheme in which he was accused of helping block a 1965 Justice Department probe of a Maryland home improvements firm, Monarch Construction Corp. of Silver Spring.

He was convicted of two counts of bribery conspiracy, one count of causing interstate transportation of a bribe and five counts of lying to the federal grand jury in Baltimore which indicted him.

China's Great Wall Unbelievable

By HENRY HARTZENBUSCH
Associated Press Writer

PEKING (AP) — "It's unbelievable," President Nixon said today when he looked down the Great Wall of China, and the President was right.

Built 2,200 years ago, 15 to 30 feet high, 18 feet wide at the top, it would reach from New York almost to Denver if its meanderings across Northern China were stretched out across the United States.

Although it dwarfs anything remaining from the ancient world, the astonishing engineering feat failed in its original purpose. It could not keep the barbarian invaders out.

The wall actually once was four separate walls, built by the rulers of four contending states in the waning days of the Chou dynasty when North China was cut up among squabbling feudal rulers.

When Chin Shih Huang Ti, then Prince Cheng in the state of Chin, became emperor in 221 B.C., he soon brought three contending minor vassal states to heel and linked them together.

The emperor decided to connect all the walls with his own, and the result was called Chang Cheng, meaning Long Wall. It took 18 years to build.

Slave laborers and prisoners did the work and died en masse in the effort. Their remains were buried beneath the wall's foundations.

Succeeding dynasties added to the wall and kept it in repair or modified according to their needs. The rulers felt safe behind the barrier atop which soldiers could march 10 abreast.

It extended all the way from the Yellow Sea, over rugged hills and mountains to the Gobi Desert without a single break. But the wall proved no barrier to the Golden Horde of Genghis Khan, whose wild Mongol and Tartar horsemen swarmed over the wall, overran North China and captured Peking.

Genghis Khan's grandson, Kublai Khan, completed the conquest, established the Yuan Dynasty and ruled over the greatest land mass ever dominated by one man.

The Ming Dynasty succeeded the Mongol and remained in power from 1368 until 1644. Then the Manchus of the north breached the wall by treachery. Their troops had crossed with permission, ostensibly to help the Mings contend with the threat of other enemies, but once inside the wall. They would not leave. Instead, they wheeled south for conquest and established the last of the Chinese imperial dynasties, the Chings.

U.S. Pandas Irk Canada

TORONTO (AP) — Ever since Canada recognized Red China two years ago, Chairman Cecilia Long of the Toronto Zoological Society has been trying to get a pair of pandas for the Toronto Zoo.

On Tuesday, President Nixon's wife revealed in Peking that Premier Chou En-lai was giving the United States a pair of the rare animals, of which China has a monopoly. The United States does not recognize the Peking regime officially and is not likely to do so any time soon: Mrs. Nixon said the gift was in appreciation of the pair of muskoxen the Nixons are giving the Chinese.

"We felt confident," Miss Long wrote External Affairs

Minister Mitchell Sharp, "that Canada's chances for success were far greater than those of Mr. Nixon because of our diplomatic recognition of the People's Republic of China."

Adding to Miss Long's burn is the fact that the two muskoxen had Canadian parents.

Honor Explorers

LONDON (AP) — Explorers Henry Hudson, Capt. Robert Falcon Scott, Martin Frobisher and James Clark Ross will be featured on a series of British stamps to be issued Feb. 16.

On April 26, a stamp marking the 50th anniversary of the discovery of Tutankhamen's tomb in Egypt will be put out.

Senior Citizens Urged To File For Exemption

Pickaway - Ross Representative Myrl Shoemaker in commenting on Ohio's homestead exemption recently enacted into law stated today in Bourneville, "I want to make it very clear that all persons 65 years of age or older who are eligible for the homestead exemption in real property taxes must file their application with the county auditor before the first Monday in June, 1972."

The homestead exemption for property taxes is included in the income tax bill recently passed by the General Assembly and is available to our senior citizens whose adjusted gross income is $3,000 or less. Depending on one's level of income, property owners could have their valuation reduced by as much as $5,000 or 70 percent whichever is less under the new homestead exemption."

Shoemaker stated, "I sponsored several similar tax relief measures in past sessions of the

Insurance Guarantee Association Backed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Ohio Insurance Guarantee Association does not have to pay claims against a defunct insurance company that were filed before the association was legally formed, the Supreme Court found Tuesday.

The high court let stand an Ohio Supreme Court ruling that the association was not liable for claims filed against the Ohio Valley Insurance Co. prior to Sept. 4, 1970—the date the law setting up the association went into effect.

General Assembly and I enthusiastically and ardently supported passage of the homestead provision this past December. However, I am concerned that if eligible taxpayers are not made aware of the June filing date, that the benefits we have worked so long and hard for will not be fully realized. This tax benefit enacted for the economic relief of our citizens 65 years of age or older was vitally needed and long overdue but again I stress the point that the benefits are not automatic."

Shoemaker went on to express his regrets that passage of the tax bill which included the homestead provision came too late in the legislature to be applied to 1971 taxes, but felt that in the years ahead elderly taxpayers will receive a substantially decreased property tax bill if they are eligible and if they timely apply to the county auditor. He also made it clear that the homestead exemption would be a monetary benefit in addition to the 10 percent tax rollback and the relief it represents for taxpayers.

Representative Shoemaker concluded by saying, "Application forms are currently being prepared by the State Tax Department of Taxation and from the county auditor. If anyone wants more information about the homestead exemption, I hope they'll call me at once. Relief for taxpayers, especially for elderly citizens, continues to be one of my highest priorities in public office."

Hospital Board Okays 2 Doctors

Two new physicians were approved for practice at Berger Hospital during the February meeting of the board of governors.

One of the new doctors is Charles Hedges, son of Dr. J. M. Hedges, local practitioner. Charles is expected here in August to set up practice. Approval was also given for Dr. Edward Sparks, a new member of the emergency room group.

Board members were advised that the advisory board had approved all salaries, rates, etc. of Berger Hospital to be in full compliance with government rulings under Phase II of the wage-price freeze.

Committeemen were given the go-ahead to study possibilities of purchasing a new x-ray machine for the hospital. Members had been advised in November that repairs on the 16-year-old machine were becoming too numerous and costly.

A letter was read during the meeting from former mayor Richard Gerhardt offering his support to the hospital and his services in their building program. While some discussion Wednesday was centered on proposals for updating hospital facilities, surveys are still being conducted and no proposals were available for vote. Next meeting members expect reports from several areas on progress and plans.

Administrator John Reid noted that the hospital operated in the black in January, showing a profit of $10,175, a good showing, he said, for 65 percent occupancy. In 1971, the hospital filled its beds at a 77 percent occupancy rate and made about $20,000, the administrator commented. Emergency room saw 731 patients during the month, about 50 more than the previous year.

Billboard Is Used For Murder Reminder

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A billboard erected near an entrance to Western Expressway shows a 10-year-old girl and asks, "Do You Know Who Killed Carmen Colon?"

Rush-hour motorists had passed the nude girl on the highway last Nov. 16, and she was later found near the expressway, raped and strangled.

Top Golfers In Gleason Classic Tilt

FORT LAUDERDALE, Fla. (AP) — Almost all of golf's great names are on hand—Arnold Palmer, Jack Nicklaus, Gary Player, Lee Trevino—but a rookie and an also-ran may be the men to watch in Jackie Gleason's $260,000 Inverrary Classic.

The inaugural of golf's richest event got under way today on the 7,178-yard, par 72 Inverrary Golf Club Course with rookie Lanny Wadkins and rebounding Marty Fleckman factors to be reckoned with in the 72-hole chase for a whopping $52,000 first prize.

Both have come very close in recent weeks and both have served notice they're ready to break through—Wadkins for the first time as a pro and Fleckman after a long, dry spell.

The 22-year-old Wadkins, a quietly-confident product of Winston-Salem, N.C. and Wake Forest, is in his first full year on the pro tour. He lost in a playoff for the title in Phoenix last Sunday and was second by a stroke the week before. He's won $36,189 so far this season, more than Nicklaus, Palmer or Trevino.

Fleckman, a darkly-hand-some 27-year-old from Port Arthur, Tex., and the University of Houston, is in the process of playing his way out of a long, puzzling slump. He was one of the game's most ballyhooed youngsters when he won the Cajun Classic shortly after turning pro in 1967.

He had a solid, $22,000 money-winning season the next year—and hasn't made expenses since then. He rarely made the cut for the final two rounds and dropped back into the ranks of the Monday qualifiers.

Celts Edge Cavaliers; Win 113-111

By BRUCE LOWITT
Associated Press Sports Writer
"Cleveland is a funny team," Jo Jo White said—but the Boston guard wasn't laughing. He was panting.

"You get them down and they keep fighting back. They don't quit. No question—they're going to be tough," White said Wednesday night after his jump shot from the top of the key with 13 seconds to play gave the Celtics a 113-111 National Basketball Association victory over the scrappy Cavaliers.

In the night's other NBA games, Milwaukee overhauled Baltimore 113-105, Houston surprised Los Angeles 115-110, Atlanta nipped Phoenix 120-118, Cincinnati defeated Portland 110-106 and Seattle squeezed by Detroit 97-96.

The victory enabled the Celtics to pad their divisional lead over the idle New York Knicks to three games. But, as the score indicated, it was anything but easy.

"They had everything to gain and nothing to lose," Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn said of the Cavaliers, last in the Central Division. "They were out there scratching and grabbing all night."

The Celts appeared to have things locked up early, leading by 16 points in the third quarter before the Cavs became aroused and caught them at 108-108 with 1:48 to play. John Havlicek's 33 points and White's 29 led Boston while Bobby Smith had 29 and Austin Carr 25 for Cleveland.

Area Cagers Open Tournament Play

It's basketball tournament time for the area schools with Westfall and Teays Valley swinging into action Friday night and Circleville and Logan Elm getting underway Saturday night.

High school basketball tournaments always produce plenty of fireworks and season records go out the window as the prep cagers battle to stay alive in their quest for state laurels.

Circleville and Teays Valley will be competing in the Class AA sectionals at Groveport High School while Logan Elm and Westfall will participate in the Class A sectionals at Grove City High School.

Teays Valley will meet Hamilton Township 8:30 p.m. Friday. A victory for the Vikings will send them back into action 8 p.m. March 3 against the winner of the Bexley-Wehrle Memorial contest. Bexley is seeded number one in the Groveport sectional.

Circleville's Tigers, seeded number two in the Groveport sectional, will take to the boards 7 p.m. Saturday against Columbus DeSales. A Tiger win will send the Red and Black against the winner of the Mifflin-Waterson fray 8 p.m. March 4.

Both sectional winners will move on to the district tournament.

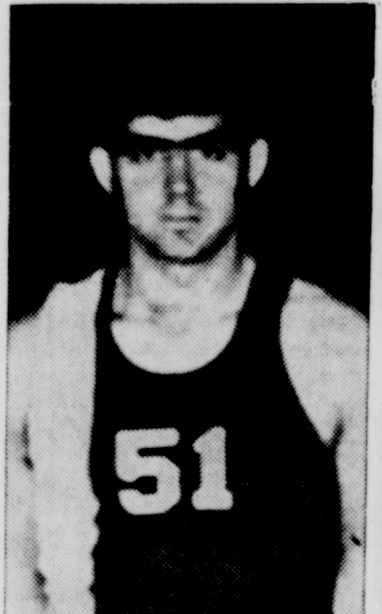

Westfall will begin the Class A sectional warfare 8 p.m. Friday when the Mustangs meet St. Charles.

A win for the Mustangs will put them into the sectional finals March 3 against the winner of the Fairbanks-Jonathan Alder game.

Logan Elm will open up against Ohio Deaf 8:30 p.m. Saturday and a victory will give them a berth in the sectional finals March 4 with West Jefferson, who drew a bye in the opening round.

Both sectional winners will move into the district competition.

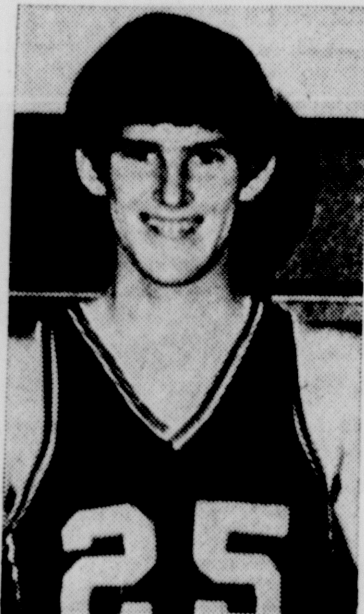

As always, seats will be at a premium and late comers will find standing room only.

Three Area Cagers Named To SVC All-Star Squad

Three Pickaway County cagers landed first team positions on the All-Scioto Valley Conference cage team picked by the league coaches.

Larry Harris of Westfall, Tim Justice and Tom Sykes of Logan Elm, all were picked to join seven other players on the first team.

Harris is a 6-foot-1 senior who averaged 16.3 points per game for the Mustangs. Sykes and Justice were the only juniors named to the team.

A 5-foot-11 guard, Sykes averaged 20 points per game, shooting about 48 per cent from the field, and pulled down five to six rebounds every game for Coach Charles Pritchard's Logan Elm Braves.

His running mate at guard, Justice, is a 5-foot-10 cager who averaged 15 points per game. Logan Elm's Alex Jones was accorded honorable mention on the squad. Jones is a 6-foot-2 senior center.

Dave Hammond of Zane Trace was named player of the year for the second consecutive year. Hammond, a 6-foot-2 senior, who averaged over 30 points a game, also received the top honor in the Ross County League. He is a veteran varsity member of four years on the Zane Trace squad.

Other members of the All-Conference unit are Doug Barton, East Clinton, senior, 5-foot-11, 20.8 ppg; Rick Evans, Unioto, senior, 6-foot-4, 21.4 ppg; Dave Hice, Unioto, senior, 6-foot-2, 16.5 ppg; Dan Ater, Adena, senior, 6-foot-1, 22.8 ppg; Chris Benner, Paint Valley, senior, 5-foot-9, 19 ppg; Jeff Whitt, Paint Valley, 6-foot, 20.9 ppg. Evans of Unioto and Whitt of Paint Valley were repeaters on the squad along with Hammond.

Honorable mention cagers include Jeff Shepherd and Ed Wheeler of Piketon, Doug Ramsey and Bill Miller of Zane Trace, Jeff Zeisler and Steve Detillion of Unioto, Greg VanCuren of Laurelville, George Barnes and Chris Brown of Adena and Tim Taylor of Paint Valley.

Unioto's new head coach Robert Munn was named SVC coach of the year. He guided the Shermans to a perfect 8-0 mark in the league and a 13-5 overall record.

Unioto had the most members on the list. Laurelville and Piketon failed to land anybody on the first team.

Here are the final league standings.

	W	L
Unioto	8	0
Paint Valley	6	2
Adena	6	2
Zane Trace	5	3
Logan Elm	3	5

Medic Says Cook Could Become Better

CLEVELAND (AP) — A physician at the Cleveland Clinic believes that the third operation on the shoulder of Cincinnati Bengal quarterback Greg Cook may have relieved his pain, but would make no prediction about Cook's ability to play again.

Cook, who had missed two straight football seasons with the shoulder injury sustained in 1969, withdrew his announced retirement in January after the operation was suggested.

Favor Miamisburg In Gymnastics Tilt

DAYTON, Ohio (AP) — Miamisburg is a solid favorite to win its second Ohio high school gymnastics title in the last three years Friday in the University of Dayton Fieldhouse.

Kettering Fairmont East, which nipped Miamisburg by one-tenth of a point for the 1971 state championship, is among five challengers for the team title Friday night.

Virginia Turns Back Pitt Cagers, 84-74

By ALEX SACHARE
Associated Press Sports Writer

The buttons read "BP for President"—and if the election were held in Charlottesville, Va. along about now, he just might make it.

"BP" is Barry Parkhill; Charlottesville is the home of the University of Virginia. Ever since BP came to Charlottesville, the ol' town hasn't been the same.

Parkhill, a 20-year-old, 6-foot-4, 185-pound junior at Virginia, is a basketball player. A very good basketball player.

Last year, Parkhill sparked Virginia to a 15-11 record, the first winning season for the Cavaliers in 17 years.

This year, Parkhill and his mates have gone a step further. Virginia won 18 of its first 19 games, climbing to the No. 6 spot in the national rankings, the first time the team had ever cracked the Top Ten. After losses to Penn State and Duke, Virginia edged Clemson Monday for its 19th victory.

Wednesday night came another milestone. Parkhill and 6-10 senior Scott McCandlish scored 22 points apiece as 13th-ranked Virginia defeated Pitt 84-74, raising the Cavaliers' record to 20-3. It was Virginia's first 20-win season in 67 years of competition.

Pitt led by five points at half-time and the game was tied with 3:18 to go, but the Cavaliers poured in 14 free throws down the stretch to break the game open.

Neither coach was happy with the officiating. Five technical fouls were called, four of them on Pitt.

In other games involving Top Twenty teams, third-ranked Louisville whipped Cincinnati 83-73, No. 5 North Carolina trounced Georgia Tech 87-66, ninth-rated South Carolina overpowered Toledo 94-72 and

No. 11 Florida State defeated Jacksonville 70-61.

Louisville, 20-2, jumped off to an 8-0 lead and was never threatened. Jim Price scored 25 points to lead all scorers.

"We played very well," declared Louisville coach Denny Crum. "I was especially pleased with the defense. Cincinnati is a good shooting team, but we played real aggressive defense."

North Carolina, 19-3, sank 52.9 per cent of its shots from the field and pressured out-manned Georgia Tech into 33 turnovers. Bill Chamberlain topped the Tar Hells with 24 points, but Tech's Steve Post took game honors with 25.

"It was hard to get up for this game," conceded North Carolina coach Dean Smith, "because we beat Georgia Tech by 45 points in Charlotte. We played extremely well on defense and forced Tech to take bad shots. Georgia Tech just doesn't have the rebounding strength to play with us."

Rebounding strength also helped South Carolina, 18-4, past Toledo, 16-5. Seven-footer Danny Traylor and 6-10 Tom Riker dominated the boards as the Gamecocks jumped ahead 19-5 and coasted to victory. Traylor scored 21 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Riker had 25 points and 15 rebounds.

In a battle of independents seeking post-season tournament bids, Florida State came from behind in the final seven minutes to beat Jacksonville. The Seminoles are now 21-4 while Jacksonville's record dipped to 18-6.

In other major games, Penn State edged West Virginia 89-79 on a steal and lay-up in the final eight seconds by Chuck Crist; Al Burks scored 35 points to lift Duquesne, 18-4, past DePaul 70-65; Ron Righter sank a 19-foot jumper with 25 seconds to go in overtime to give Duke a 74-73 victory over North Carolina State, and St. Joseph's held American U. scoreless over the last 5½ minutes to record a 59-53 Middle Atlantic Conference victory.

In a doubleheader at the Palestra in Philadelphia, Temple, 20-7, routed Rhode Island 108-64 and Syracuse, 18-5, rallied in the second half to overcome LaSalle 87-80.

The nations top-ranked small college team, Eau Claire State of Wisconsin, overpowered Wisconsin-River Falls 99-68 to boost its record to 20-1 and clinch at least a tie for its third consecutive State University conference crown.

Six Eau Claire players scored in double figures, Mike Ratliff leading the way with 27 points and 16 rebounds. Jack Renkens of River Falls took game honors, however, with 33 points.

Boxing Examinations Hit Following Death

WINNIPEG (AP) — The pre-fight medical examination of boxers was criticized Wednesday by the man who conducted the examination of light-heavyweight boxer Stewart Gray, who died after being knocked out in a title bout Monday night.

Gray, 27, of Toronto, was knocked out in the seventh round by Al Sparks of Winnipeg, the Canadian champion.

Except for a brief period early Tuesday, he was unconscious until his death Tuesday night.

Athens Cage Coach Eyes Shooting

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Charlie McAfee of Athens, one of three active Ohio high school basketball coaches with more than 500 career victories, recalls when 33 per cent shooting won games.

"I can remember telling the kids if they made one of three, we were going to win. You preached that in offensive strategy," said McAfee, 53, in his 31st coaching season.

McAfee spent 13 years at Ames-Bern in Athens County before the next 18 at Athens. He has 536 victories and 154 losses going into tournament play against Lancaster.

Only Paul Walker of Middletown, the state's No. 1 mentor with 611 career triumphs, and Charles "Red" Ash of Canton South have passed the magic 500 total.

"Now you've just got to shoot 50 per cent to win most games. The jump shot really changed basketball and speeded it up," McAfee said.

The veteran mentor also said players are stronger physically and better all-around performers now.

"They spend all year playing the game. Weight programs have made them stronger, too," he said.

Any thoughts of retirement? "It's a year-to-year thing for me," McAfee replied.

"The minute it's no longer fun, I'll quit. I still enjoy going to practice with the kids."

Around Ohio:

Springfield North, 18-0, became that city's first unbeaten regular season team, although Springfield Public won state titles in 1925 and 1950. Those teams had respective records of 19-4 and 19-7, including tournament play.

Sixth-ranked Findlay drew Lima Senior for its first tournament foe Saturday, bad news for Trojan backers. A Lima team has eliminated Findlay seven straight years in post-season play, including last season when the Trojans were 18-0.

Leicester Stovell scored seven points in the last 8½ minutes, bringing Cleveland Heights from a 59-54 deficit to a 61-59 victory over Lakewood. It was the first Lake Erie League title since 1961 for Heights, 17-1.

Lockland's star performer is Dave Sensibaugh, brother of former Ohio State football standout Mike Sensibaugh. Dave leads the Cincinnati area in scoring with a 28.4 average. He's a 6-1 senior guard.

Middletown whipped Cincinnati Princeton last week, creating a three-way Greater Miami Conference tie among the Middies, Princeton and Hamilton Taft. All, incidentally, are in the tough Oxford District Tournament.

Wellsville's last four losses have been in the Steubenville Arena. The latest was a 60-51 verdict to Steubenville Catholic that severed a 35-game regular season winning streak and knocked the Tigers out of a second straight Class AA poll title.

Mansfield Senior and Fremont Ross, which split two regular season games, are paired in the Ashland sectional tournament. Mansfield Malabar tries to whip Mansfield Madison a third time this year in the same event.

Gnadenhuetten Indian Valley South's 18-0 mark was the first unbeaten campaign in the Tuscarawas County consolidation's five years. Formerly Gnadenhuetten and Port Washington, the school earned The Associated Press Class A state title in the process.

Preble Shawnee mentor Danny Norris told Middletown Madison's Larry Bradenburg that his team would beat Madison if Bradenburg's squad was unbeaten.

Sure enough, Madison was 16-0 and Preble Shawnee won 57-54 last week. To make matters worse, Madison's team bus blew up leaving for Shawnee before the game and the team had to wait on another bus.

Dave Good, 6-foot Pickerington guard, scored a career high 43 points last week and matched the Mid-State League's top performance by Bill Markwood of Lancaster Fisher this season.

Ed Kane's 30-foot jumper at the buzzer tied the score 63-63 and Whitehall went on to end Mount Vernon's streak of nine games 68-67 in overtime.

Kent Still After Cage Title; Tops Bowling Green, 82-78

By GEORGE STRODE
Associated Press Sports Writer
Kent State never has won a Mid-American Conference basketball title in 20 years of trying, a fact coach Frank Truitt never mentions to his players.

"We just mention those good, old fundamentals and keep our minds on the games," Truitt said Wednesday night after the Flashes remained in title contention with an 82-78 victory over Bowling Green.

That pushed Kent's mark to 6-3 in the conference with only a home date left March 4 with leading Toledo, 6-2.

NCAA Sues ABA Over Recruiting

KANSAS CITY (AP) — A $216,663 damage suit has been filed by the National Collegiate Athletic Association against the American Basketball Association and Howard Porter, former All-American at Villanova University.

The legal action is designed to stop the ABA from secretly signing college players before they complete their eligibility.

The NCAA filed the suit Wednesday in Common Pleas Court in Chester, Pa., and asked the court to order the ABA to notify the NCAA and the school involved within 24 hours after a player with remaining eligibility signs an ABA contract.

In addition to the injunction, the NCAA seeks general and special damages totaling $116,663 from the ABA and Porter and $100,000 exemplary damages from Porter.

Walter Byers, NCAA executive director, said the $116,663 represents out-of-pocket expense to the NCAA for investigating the Porter case and the additional $100,000 is "being sought because of damage to the association's reputation as to its ability to enforce our eligibility rules and to the integrity of the NCAA's national tournament."

Porter, who now plays for the Chicago Bulls of the National Basketball Association, led Villanova to second place in the national finals last March at Houston. He was selected as the tournament's most valuable player.

The Rockets, who play a home contest Saturday with second-place Ohio University, 5-2, took a 94-72 beating at ninth-ranked South Carolina.

Another nationally-ranked power, No. 3 Louisville, hung a 93-73 shiner on Cincinnati.

Darrel Dunlap's basket in the closing minutes snapped a 56-56 tie and Miami went on to an 84-73 nonconference victory over Xavier, despite Bob Fullerton's 24 points.

Wittenberg kept alive its flicking Ohio Conference title hopes, edging Muskingum 71-70 to match Wooster, 9-2, for second place behind leading Capital's 9-1 mark.

In other Ohio Conference contests, Otterbein's balance and 59 per cent shooting downed Baldwin-Wallace 90-71 and Dudley Brown's three free throws and one by Gary Saunders gave Denison a 67-63 victory over Marietta.

Central Michigan handed Akron its fourth loss in 24 games 87-73 while Youngstown State, 19-5, brought back a 79-72 triumph from Gannon, Pa.

Elsewhere, it was: Western Michigan 93, Cleveland State 72; Aquinas, Mich. 78, Heidelberg 71; Mount Union 98, Case Western Reserve 72; Wooster 82, Hiram 73; Ohio Wesleyan 74, Ohio Northern 72; Malone 124, Ohio Dominican 95; Bethany 82, John Carroll 79; and Steubenville 94, Central Michigan 81.

Ruben Vance fired in 30 points and Roger Evans had 25 points and 20 rebounds for Kent, which spurted from a 35-32 halftime lead to 69-54 with nearly nine minutes left.

"Evans has been a key to our team's improvement right here at the end. He's playing with more poise and going to the boards more consistently," Truitt said.

"Our kids really have been playing under pressure the last three games. They know they have to win to stay in it," the Kent mentor added.

Bob Hotelling's 28 points and 21 more by Brian Scanlan led Bowling Green, dipping deeper in the Mid-American basement with a 1-8 record.

Louisville, 20-2, had an 8-0 lead before Cincinnati could score with nearly four minutes elapsed. Jim Price scored 25 for the Missouri Valley leaders and Derrek Dickey 25 for the Bearcats, 14-9.

South Carolina's superior height was too much for Toledo. Tom Riker, 6-10, scored 25 points and had 15 rebounds and 7-foot Danny Traylor 31 points and 10 rebounds for the independent Gamecocks, 18-4. Toledo, 16-5, was led by Tom Kozelko's 21 points.

Richie Allen Signs Pact; $100,000

By ALEX SACHARE

Associated Press Sports Writer
"The Chicago club judges Richie Allen on what he does for us on the field," White Sox manager Chuck Tanner declared last winter, after the Chisox dealt pitcher Tommy John and infielder Steve Huntz to Los Angeles for the 29-year-old slugger.

The Chicago club must be expecting a lot.

Allen agreed Wednesday to a 1972 contract for more than $100,000 making him the highest-paid player in the White Sox' 71-year history. He is expected in Chicago's Sarasota, Fla. training camp within the next few days for formal signing.

Allen, who spent seven tempestuous seasons with the Philadelphia Phillies, will be playing for his fourth club in four seasons. He hit 23 home runs and drove in 90 runs with the Dodgers in 1971.

While Allen was presumably content, a couple of other prominent American League sluggers were not—at least, not yet.

Signs Point . . .

heavily necessary to insure continuity for the Chinese revolution against those who wanted to settle back, relax and forget about such things.

But the party document went on, "nobody must think that everything will be all right after one or two great cultural revolutions or even three or four, for Socialist society covers a long historical period." At the same time, it said, the time had come to "make a concrete analysis of the conditions of our enemies, our friends and ourselves."

A week or two later Henry A. Kissinger was in Peking. The Chinese leaders had set in motion a process of reassessing the nation's position in today's world power picture.

It was not without a serious wrench. There had been strong resistance to any opening toward the United States. Lin Biao, named in 1969 as Mao's successor, fell in the resulting quarrel and was eliminated from the Peking scene along with a number of others in high places. The ruling Politburo that had 25 members when named in 1969 has nine left. Mao is first, Chou ranks second. In third place is the once ultrarevolutionary and loudly anti-U.S. Chiang Ching, Mao's wife, who was Nixon's smiling hostess at the ballet this week.

Hindsight permits tracing the development of a Chinese shift growing out of a fear of the Soviet Union on the frontier. For a year or more before the U.S.-Peking contact, the official Chinese press had been reviving significant Mao quotations.

One dated to the days of Japanese invasion. It counseled distinguishing between "imperialists" who aggressed and menaced China and those who did not. Also revived was a Mao dictum that while principles must be firmly maintained "we must also have all permissible and necessary flexibility to serve our principles."

Under Chou's guidance that flexibility seems to be emerging. Perhaps it will permit close enough contact with the United States to make the Peking regime rest more easily in the shadow of Soviet leaders whom the Chinese press has called "mad present-day social imperialists and world stormtroopers opposing China."

Four men from Beaver are seeking a total of more than $113,000 for personal injuries and losses stemming from a three car crash Jan. 24, 1970 at Route 23 and Huston St. Bradley, Joseph, Worley and Delbert Harris are asking the judgment from Billy McCormick of St. Albans, W. Va.

The accident was reportedly caused when Circleville resident Vernon James Boltenhouse pulled onto Route 23 from Huston St. in front of McCormick and the Harrises and lost control of his auto. An injury toll rolled to nine persons when a semi truck and car collided while trying to avoid the first crash.

Both local men are included in the suit as third party defendants.

Seated as jurors on the case today were: Betty R. Conley, Robert A. Stoney, Frederick Acord, Charlene Patterson, Marjorie A. Crist, John Duffendall, Donald E. Minor, Lois L. Melvin, Carl S. Zwyer, Robert P. Featheringham, Joanne Faye Pettit, Keith A. Conrad and alternate William A. Bennett.

OU-L Slates Registration In March

Spring quarter registration will be March 8 and 9 at Ohio University-Lancaster.

Students registering spring quarter will follow the alphabetical sequence as previously done in the fall and winter quarters, with fulltime students scheduled for Wednesday, March 8, at the following times:

S thru V from 1:30 to 2:30 p.m.; W thru Z from 2:30 to 3:30 p.m.; D thru G from 3:30 to 4:30 p.m.; A thru C from 4:30 to 5:30 p.m.; M thru R from 5:30 to 6:30 p.m.; and H thru L from 6:30 to 7:30 p.m.

Part-time students, those taking less than 12 hours, will follow the same sequences on Thursday, March 9. Students who are unable to register during their appointed hour may register any hour between 1:30 and 7:30 on their designated day.

Students who cannot register on March 8 or 9 or cannot have someone else register for them, must register March 21 from 9:30 to 11 a.m. or 3 to 6 p.m.

Classes begin Monday, March 27. Students registering after that date will pay a late registration fee of $10. Last day for registration and schedule adjustments is April 6.

Students who plan to take credit courses at Ohio University in Lancaster are reminded that they must be formally admitted and that the application should be completed before registration. These forms are available at the local campus.

Those desiring academic advising may make an appointment by phone prior to the regularly scheduled time of registration.

Ancient Iron Furnace In Area Operated In 1640

By B. E. KELLEY
Curator, Fayette County
Historical Society Museum

WASHINGTON C. H. — A carbon 14 dating of one of the ancient iron furnaces in Ohio has just been announced by Dr. Clyde Keeler. He assisted in exploring the furnace and dates its operation in 1640 A. D.

The furnace dated is known as Haskins No. 2, from which a 42 1/2 pound bar of iron was removed by Dr. Keeler when the furnace was excavated last summer after a top archaeologist had branded the then unexplored furnace as probably a lime kiln around 100 years old.

This furnace, largest of all found in the same locale, is located in Ross County on the farm of Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Haskins. They reside on Pennycroft Hill Road along Deer Creek, some four miles west of State Route 104, 11 miles north of Chillicothe. It was there Capt. Arlington Mallery, now deceased, explored a number of furnaces in the late 1940's and 1950's. He found several large bars of ancient iron in two or three of them and an ancient iron ax and shovel.

He never had any of his finds there dated, or if he did, the dating was not carried in his controversial book, "Lost America." Capt. Mallery pointed out there was every indication that the ancient furnaces were the work of Norsemen or other people who came into the

Police Probing Loss, Damage Complaints

City Police are investigating several malicious vandalism and theft reports Thursday.

Mrs. Tom Eveland, 317 S. Court St., told Police that someone had slashed the top of her late model convertible either Wednesday night or Thursday morning.

Alice Dennis, 1980 Sioux Drive, reported that someone had dented the trunk of her car by crashing a beer bottle onto the vehicle Thursday morning.

Ed Holmes, 106 S. Washington St., reported a missing license plate, lost from the rear of his car. The plate is number Y-185-R.

Roger Shelpman, 18, 363 E. Franklin St., told Police investigators that someone had broken into his garage Sunday and made off with two mag wheels, two tires and assorted tools valued at $380.

Helen Abney, 149 W. Mound St., complained to the department that a tenant had done an estimated $7 damage to her apartment house, 217 W. Corwin St., and made off with $42 in merchandise from the building.

wild and dangerous Ohio wilderness and spent years operating their primitive furnaces.

Dr. Keeler, affiliated with the Central State Hospital, Milledgeville, Ga., in the research department, is formerly from Marion, Ohio. He has made five trips here in search of more information to learn when and who the venturesome iron makers were who left their closed up furnaces but little evidence.

Dr. Keeler also had Deer Creek Furnace No. 2 dated, but apparently the charcoal used in the dating had been affected by the acid in chemical fertilizer used in the farmed-over spot from which the charcoal was taken. It is apparent the date is not correct. Deer Creek No. 2 is located 300 yards from the Haskins 2 furnace where Dr. Keeler was aiding in the "dig" and found the bar of iron blocking a flue hole near the outer wall of the furnace.

The bar of iron from the Haskins 2 furnace is now in the Fayette County Museum where it is exhibited with other ancient iron, a bar from the Arledge Furnace, two miles east of the Haskins furnace, and a billet from the site of an ancient furnace found two feet below the surface in the Walters Mobile Home site at the southern edge of Washington C.H.

The museum in Washington C. H. has been named as the official depository of all material from Ohio ancient iron furnaces and B. E. Kelley, curator of the museum, has been designated key man in Ohio to lead the search for further evidence in solving the mystery shrouding the brave iron workers who came, remained for years, and vanished without leaving much evidence to indicate their time here and nationality.

It was Kelley who located the Haskins Furnace 2 and led the exploration in which several interested residents of the area took part.

The furnace, over six feet deep, six feet north and south and nearly nine east and west has walls, built of stone and cemented together with a mixture of bog iron ore, bog marl and clay. The wall stones were fire glazed. Glazed stones, some not glazed and iron slag still containing much iron from the bog iron used in all of the furnaces along Deer Creek were found in the marl which filled the furnace and was used freely for making an updraft flue.

The marl, at various depths, contained wood and small segments of human bones. And the wood had not been charred, indicating the marl was placed in the furnace pit without heat. One piece of board contained an ancient iron nail.

Discovery of the furnace was made within 200 feet of Haskins No. 1 which was one of four furnaces in a mound and gave up iron bars, a shovel and iron ax when explored by Capt. Mallery. Large amounts of iron slag were piled near the series of furnaces.

The Landsverk Foundation, Glendale, Calif., of which Dr. O. G. Landsverk, noted authority on Norsemen and ancient peoples generally, is deeply interested in the finds made here pointing to Norsemen or other ancient iron workers.

Dr. Landsverk last summer employed Dr. Robert L. DuBois, Oklahoma University, who is considered the greatest authority in the world on archeomagnetic dating of burned material that has never been disturbed to date the George Arledge and Haskins No. 1 furnaces.

Dr. DuBois, accompanied by his wife and daughter, spent two days here, obtained eight specimens from each of the two furnaces from which iron had been obtained. Last month he reported that apparently the samples were not all first rate and that a computer had broken down during the examination and additional samples would be obtained for another try. There was much bog iron ore mixed with bog marl in the samples taken and Dr. DuBois said he had never encountered such a mixture before.

Dr. Landsverk made two visits here and was shown over the area for the first hand study of the furnaces and other earthworks.

He is now writing a fabulous treatise on the Vikings in New England, using much information disclosed by three runestones found in Maine by a Mr. Elliott of Quincy, Mass., and given to the Bath Marine Museum at Bath, Maine. Dr. Landsverk saw the stones and had Alf Monge, cryptologist expert, of Santa Rosa, Calif., confirm the readings. He stated that: "In my opinion they are among the most valuable archaeological finds that have ever been made on this continent." Dates of near 1000 A. D. are disclosed.

The presence of certain characters on the bar of iron from Haskins No. 2 furnace, was taken as evidence that it is not as old as some of the other iron (234 pounds in all) recovered from the furnaces along Deer Creek. These characters have not been fully determined due to rust and decay.

The local group has Spruce Hill in view for further research, inasmuch as several ancient iron furnaces are in evidence there. A stone wall over two miles in length apparently was built to protect the workmen who must have lived there many years. No one is allowed to dig on the hill until further careful exploration is made.

By common consent of several newspaper editors and archaeologists, no publicity was given the finds and activities in connection with the ancient furnace exploration until definite dating was obtained.

It is now evident from material not yet disclosed that archaeology in North America is to undergo some revamping. Indications are the most interesting is to come in the near future.

Meanwhile there still remains the mystery of the venturesome, fearless men who came by rivers and creeks in boats, weathering all kinds of hazards, to build and operate their iron making furnaces in this remote wilderness long before the Ohio and Mississippi Rivers were explored by civilized men and before any trading posts were established west of the Alleghenies.

As the probe into the problem of the past proceeds, a dating of the ancient bar of iron from the George Arledge furnace, explored by Capt. Mallery, is under way at the Smithsonian Museum in Washington, D. C. and a report is expected at any time. A piece of the iron was sent to Smithsonian by Dr. Landsverk for time dating.

Further information regarding the work in Ohio will be released later.
